LACK OF WIND DELAYS START OF BIG FLIGHT

Four of Large Flying Boats Fail to Rise From San Francisco Bay After Two Get Up, Prepared For Squadron Journey to the Hawaiian Islands

Fair Weather Awaits Voyagers

Associated Press
San Francisco, Jan. 10.—Lack of wind to aid the heavily laden ships on the take-off to-day delayed the United States navy's massed flight to Hawaii. More than an hour after the first ship had taken the air four of the flying boats still rested on the waters of Paradise Cove, San Francisco Bay.

The first plane got into the air at 12:11 p.m. The journey of 2,150 nautical miles over the open Pacific is the longest and most hazardous over-water formation flight ever attempted. The take-off was set for the noon hour by Lieut.-Commander Kneiff, McGinnis, squadron leader, so his command might take the earliest possible advantage of existing favorable weather conditions.

TO INVESTIGATE COAL PRODUCTION

New Glasgow, N.S., Jan. 10.—Prepared to conduct a survey at the request of the Nova Scotia government into the physical possibility of the Acadia Coal Company maintaining its present wage scale among its 1,500 employees, Thomas Graham, Vancouver Island mining authority, opened his preliminary work to-day.

Miss Isobel Hutchison, in Victoria Last Summer, Completes Dangerous Journey in Far North

Miss Isobel W. Hutchison, a young Scotswoman who spent several days in Victoria during the summer on her arrival from the British Isles, has completed a journey of 500 miles along the most dangerous part of the Arctic coast, according to dispatches from McMurtry, on the Athabasca River. Pilot John Bythell of the Canadian Airways reached Port McMurray the other day with news of Miss Hutchison's movements in the far north.

Arriving in Victoria by the Ms. Pacific President, of the Furness Line, Miss Hutchison spent a short time here before proceeding to Vancouver to join the St. Princess Norah for Skagway. She said at that time that she was going to spend a winter in the Arctic and hoped to visit the derelict "ghost ship of the Arctic," the Baychimo, which was lost in the ice off Point Barrow some years ago.

ROCKEFELLER CENTRE SUE

New York, Jan. 10.—Unfair competition in selling tenants was alleged against Rockefeller Centre, John D. Rockefeller Jr. and others in a $10,000,000 damage suit filed to-day by two real-estate corporations controlled by August Heckscher, aged capitalist.

SEARCH PLANE FLIES TO NORTH

Aviators Start Hunt For Bibby Plane Party on East Coast of Hudson Bay

Canadian Press
Montreal, Jan. 10.—To search for Pilot R. H. "Dick" Bibby, Air Engineer W. H. Sunderland and two passengers unreported on a flight to Ungava from Mooseonee, Ont. Pilot J. H. Lymburner and Air Engineer C. Palalay hopped off from the St. Hubert Airport early to-day in a Canadian Airways airplane for Mooseonee.

Their big Junkers all-metal cabin plane carried a complete set of spare parts, a first-aid outfit, quantities of food and a radio set. Engineer Palalay went along with Pilot Lymburner as radio operator and to aid Air Engineer Sunderland repair the Bibby plane should it be necessary.

FLY TO MOOSEONEE
The Junkers is headed to-day for Mooseonee on James Bay, the point from where Bibby took off December 20 on a flight to Povungnituk, Ungava, taking Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Stewart as passengers in the seven-passenger Fairchild transport plane, Engineer Sunderland was also in the plane.

Weather conditions were not good here, but were more encouraging out of Mooseonee in their search for the hop to Mooseonee would take him about five and a half hours. Pilot Lymburner and Engineer Palalay said they planned to work out of Mooseonee in their search for the Bibby party, making a systematic search of the east coast of James Bay and Hudson Bay.

"Shadow" Cabinet For B.C. Arranged

Thirteen Portfolios Distributed Temporarily Among Three Ministers

Foundation for British Columbia's "shadow cabinet" which will hold the reins of government for the next three weeks while most of the ministers are in Ottawa was laid in this week's orders-in-council.

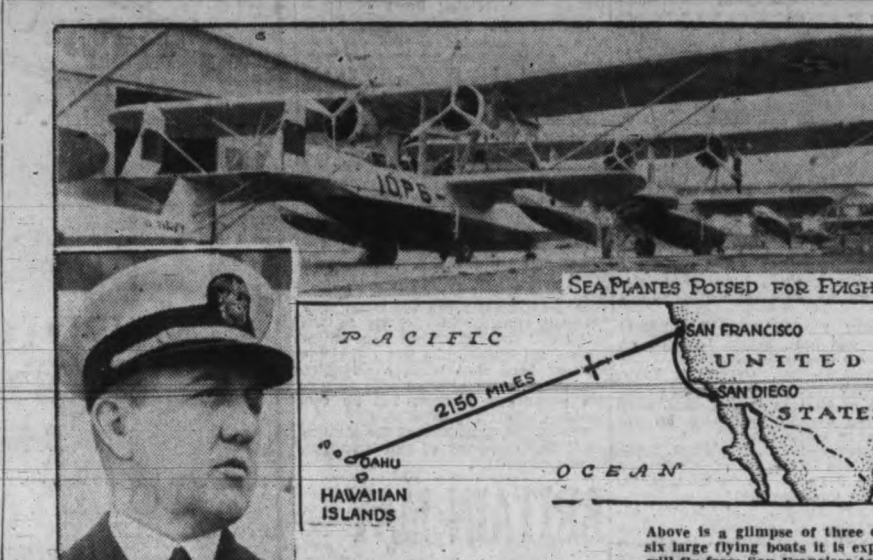

Distribution of ten out of the thirteen government portfolios has been made among Hon. A. Wells Grey, Hon. K. C. MacDonald and Hon. F. M. MacPherson. Mr. Gray, who will be acting Prime Minister, along with the portfolio of lands, also will become acting Minister of Finance and Industries for the Hon. John Hart, and acting Minister of Railways for the Premier, taking on five offices in all.

Mr. MacPherson will take over as acting Minister of Mines and Labor and Commissioner of Fisheries for Hon. G. S. Pearson, as well as his own department of Public Works. This disposal of four more portfolios.

The posts of acting Attorney-General, Provincial Secretary and Minister of Education probably will be assigned at the executive meeting to-morrow in Vancouver. Dr. MacDonald probably will be asked to act in some of these capacities.

It is one of the first occasions the capital has been left so deserted of ministers by reason of a delegation departing for the east.

Japan Current Has Changed Its Course And Ships Hindered

Capt. A. O. Lustie, Master of President Jefferson, Here Yesterday Afternoon From Orient, Says Easterly Winds Instead of Westerly Winds Blowing and Ships Log One Knot Less an Hour; May Be Temporary

"There is no doubt in my mind that the surface movement of the Japan Current has changed during the last few months," stated Capt. Alvin O. Lustie, commander of the American Mail liner President Jefferson, which reached Victoria yesterday afternoon from the Orient.

This deflection of the main current on the north Pacific trade lane has been delaying all inbound ships from the Orient, Capt. Lustie explained. The Japan Current, which keeps this coast warm, sweeps from the coast of Japan in a great circle, over which ships steam on their way to and from Asia. "There is a similar current in the Atlantic, and every once in a while it changes," Capt. Lustie said. "But it always goes back, as I imagine the Japan Current will. It may be back to normal now, but I am quite certain that during the last few weeks the surface currents have been deflected, with the result that all ships on that route have been delayed."

Caution In Outlays Needed, Says Bennett

Federal Prime Minister, Addressing Vancouver Board of Trade, Says Business Improving, But He Advises Canada Avoid Big Addition to Debt

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Jan. 10.—Optimism, caution, and pride were contained in the remarks with which Prime Minister Bennett addressed more than 1,000 people at the annual meeting of the Vancouver Board of Trade yesterday evening. Optimism, because he felt the broad general indices of trade showed the world was coming out of the depression; caution, in that Canada was a great debt country, and pride, because Canada had come through stress and strain with her integrity unimpaired.

Above is a glimpse of three of the six large flying boats it is expected will fly from San Francisco to Pearl Harbor, near Honolulu. At the left is shown Lieut.-Commander K. McGinnis, in command of the squadron. The map indicates the route from California to Oahu Island, on which Honolulu and Pearl Harbor are situated.

NEW ALCOHOL EXCUSE GIVEN

Kincardine, Ont., Jan. 10.—Theory that clothing worn while cutting wood absorbs the alcohol from the wood was advanced by Thomas Bushell, Kincardine Township, as the reason for his son, Bert, giving off an odor as if he had been drinking when arrested December 23. Judgment was reserved.

STOCK GIVEN TO LINDBERGH

Associated Press
Washington, Jan. 10.—An official of the Transcontinental Air Transport Inc. told United States senate investigators to-day 25,000 shares of the company stock were given to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

D. M. Sheaffer, chairman of the air company's executive committee, told of a complicated system used for what he said was "income tax purposes" in transferring the stock to the noted pilot.

INSANE WOMAN HELD CAPTIVE

Rescued By New Jersey Police; Husband and House-keeper Now in Jail

Ridgefield Park, N.J., Jan. 10.—Detectives strove to-day to piece together the strange story surrounding the imprisonment of a naked insane woman in a dirty, unheated, closet-like room over a stable on the old Barnes estate.

The woman, Mrs. Sophie Cerardi, forty-two, meanwhile was receiving medical attention at the county hospital, Bergen Pines.

The two other characters of the strange tale, the two alleged jailers, Joseph Cerardi, thirty-four, the woman's husband, and his house-keeper, Miss Mary Griffin, thirty-five, were held under arrest in the county jail on charge of false imprisonment.

Much police interest centred on the husband, a former middleweight pugilist, who they said was questioned in the Lindbergh abduction case after the body of the murdered Lindbergh baby had been found near a shack where Cerardi stayed occasionally at Hopewell, N.J.

When Cerardi was arrested yesterday evening, police said he acknowledged keeping his wife locked up, but denied mistreating her.

Mrs. Cerardi was described to police as a woman of intellectual attainments who could speak seven languages.

VAN DER LUBBE PUT TO DEATH

Dutchman Convicted of Firing Reichstag Building Beheaded at Leipzig

By John A. Bouman, Associated Press Foreign Staff

Leipzig, Germany, Jan. 10.—Marinus Van Der Lubbe, twenty-year-old Dutch stonemason, was beheaded to-day for firing the German Reichstag building in Berlin last February.

He had repeatedly confessed setting the fire, but steadfastly refused to divulge any information as to whether he had any accomplices.

The Supreme Court convicted him and acquitted four co-defendants—Ernst Torgler, former Communist whip in the Reichstag, and three Bulgarian refugees, Georg Dimitroff, Blago Popoff and a Wasili Tanefski—on December 23. NO STATEMENT

Late yesterday evening Van Der Lubbe was informed by the Leipzig prison governor that justice must take its course, but the announcement failed to rouse him from the stupor in which he had been sunk virtually throughout the long trial.

Van Der Lubbe did not reply to the question of whether he wanted a clergyman to attend him on the last walk to the guillotine—nor did he express any special wishes generally granted to persons on the eve of execution.

At 6 o'clock the warden entered Van Der Lubbe's cell and told him his last hour had come.

Without saying one word, Van Der Lubbe arose and after being shaved, was led by the prison governor into the courtyard.

Without showing the least emotion, Van Der Lubbe walked to the guillotine and the death sentence again was read by Wilhelm Buenger, presiding judge during the trial.

He silently shook his head when asked if he wanted to make a statement.

Meekly, the young man ascended the scaffold. The executioner, Goebler of Magdeburg, clad in evening clothes, pressed a button.

In thirty seconds it was all over. Before a clergyman had finished a prayer the executioner called out: "Justice has been done!"

Amsterdam, Jan. 10.—Popular indignation flared in various sections of the population to-day at the news of the execution of Marinus Van Der Lubbe, young Dutch brickman, in Leipzig, for the burning of the German Reichstag building.

It had been thought President von Hindenburg would commute the Dutchman's death sentence because of the representations from the Dutch government.

SUMAS FARMER IS MISSING

New Westminster, Jan. 10.—Mystery surrounds the disappearance of William Stover, prominent Sumas farmer, who has been missing from his home since Tuesday, January 2, according to reports made by his wife and neighbors to the provincial police here.

Mr. Stover left his farm and traveled here in a milk truck to pay a visit to Bruce Dixon, provincial diking inspector.

He met Mr. Dixon in his office and after a short discussion with the inspector left the office. He has not been seen since.

Paris, Jan. 10.—Great Britain protested to the French government to-day against the new French import quotas, claiming the same "preferential" treatment accorded the United States under the wine-apple deal.

SAFETY DRIVE IN FULL SWING

Chief Heatley Warns Motorists That Careless Driving Must Stop in City

Chief Thomas Heatley this morning warned Victoria motorists that the police campaign against reckless and careless driving was in full swing in the city in an effort to reduce accidents and injuries, and that all persons laying themselves open to traffic charges would be prosecuted.

Evidence of the campaign has been seen in court during the last two days when four motorists have been convicted on charges of either driving to the common danger or failing to give hand signals. Another charge of driving to the common danger was recommended for one week's imprisonment on request of defence counsel.

In order to give the people an opportunity to avoid coming under police prosecution the chief now making final preparations for the issuing of the safety booklet containing "don'ts" for motor drivers, cyclists and pedestrians. This will be issued at the end of the month.

In addition, the booklet also contains warnings for the prevention of burglary and theft, and householders are advised how to protect against entry of their homes. Various regulations and by-laws concerning traffic are also printed for the information of motorists.

Needy Students At Toronto Are Barred

Associated Press
Toronto, Jan. 10.—Registration of sixty students at the University of Toronto, unable to pay their fees, has been cancelled. A. B. Fennell, registrar, says they have been informed they may no longer attend lectures.

The deadline for payment of fees had been extended twice, Mr. Fennell said. "Many students have paid their fees since the university took active steps to collect, but there are still some sixty who have not," he said.

The registration of these students has been cancelled, but they will be reinstated if they meet their obligations."

Ralph G. D. Moore and Other Students at U.B.C. Working on New Methods For Treatment of Tuberculosis

By Special Correspondent of The Times
Vancouver, Jan. 10.—A research of potential interest to the public is being carried on at the university of British Columbia in the departments of chemistry and bacteriology. It has to do with new methods of treatment of tuberculosis.

A research student particularly prominent in this work is Ralph G. D. Moore, B.A. of Victoria, who is a U.B.C. graduate and is well known in the Capital City as a scholarship winner. Two other B.C. students engaged in the work under the head of the department of chemistry are Munro Arthur, B.A., and Tom Niven.

In the past many chemicals have been tried out in an effort to find a cure for tuberculosis, and have met with varying degrees of success. The present U.B.C. research involves taking these chemicals, organic for the most part, and from them building up other more complicated compounds which will possess, it is hoped, the curative properties of the components in a more marked degree. This initial part of the undertaking, the synthesis of new compounds, has been occupying the attention of the above-mentioned students for the past two years.

At the beginning of the 1925-26 term, since several new compounds had been made, work was started in the bacteriology department by Howard Horn, B.A., another research student. The various compounds are being tested on guinea pigs, first to determine the lethal dose, secondly in conjunction with the work of inoculation with tubercular cultures. It is no secret that members of the medical profession are watching the student work closely.

Roosevelt Says Great Area Would Benefit From Power and Navigation Development

Two-thirds Vote Is Doubtful

Canadian Press and Associated Press
Washington, Jan. 10.—President Roosevelt said this afternoon in a message to the United States Senate advocated the St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty with Canada, and asked "the consideration of ratification."

"Navigation and Power," he listed as the two main considerations, and said: "I am satisfied the treaty contains adequate provision for the needs of the Chicago drainage district and for navigation between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi River."

"I subscribe to the definite belief that the completion of the seaway will greatly serve the economic and transportation needs of a vast area of the United States and should, therefore, be considered solely from the national point of view," he added.

"This river is a source of incomparably cheap power located in proximity to a great industrial and rural market and within transmission distance of millions of domestic consumers. The Legislature of the state of New York by unanimous vote set up the necessary state machinery during my term as Governor of New York and the state stands ready to co-operate with the federal government in the distribution of power in accordance with what I believe is to-day a definite national policy."

Washington, Jan. 10.—President Roosevelt sent a message to the Senate to-day on ratification of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty between Canada and the United States, but it is doubtful whether the two-thirds vote necessary to ratification will be found in the upper chamber.

The treaty provides for the completion of a twenty-seven-foot channel from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic ocean, which would permit lake carriers to proceed from Port William and Duluth to the Atlantic, and provide means for the 2,000,000 kilowatt electric power.

"I am making no reference to-night to any scheme of vast public undertakings," said Mr. Bennett in prefacing remarks in which he dealt with Canada's obligations. "This was not the place to do it, and also a meeting would be held shortly in Ottawa to consider such matters."

BIG ANNUAL CHARGES
"This country has so seriously discounted the future, we must pause and consider," he continued. "Canada's debt of all kinds totaled nearly $9,000,000,000, with annual interest charges of about $425,000,000, all to be raised by 10,000,000 people."

"And if you have any doubt as to who is responsible take a good look at yourself when you shave in the morning," he said.

DOMINION AND PROVINCES
Referring to Dominion contributions to provinces for unemployment without surrender of provincial autonomy.

"The time has come when the Dominion, jealous of its credit, must pause before it hands over any further sums not under its control."

The Dominion government had expended $131,462,000 for the relief of the people of Canada during the depression, all as payments to the provinces without any surrender of autonomy on their part.

OUTLOOK FOR B.C. LUMBER
Treating of Empire agreements, the Prime Minister remarked on Article 21 of that with the United Kingdom.

"A very favorable result to the efforts which are being made is practically assured and there will be no frustration of the agreement because of Russian competition," he continued.

As one of the most important clauses in the Empire agreements and thought it was one of the reasons the timber trade of British Columbia had increased as it had.

Canada has emerged to a large extent from the greatest and most universal depression of history better than most countries of the world, and her position has been accepted widely as a splendid position for a country which has just weathered a great storm," said the Prime Minister as he plunged into a review.

HIGH TARIFFS
He reviewed the steps taken by his government through tariffs, embargoes, enforcement of dumping duties, and fixing of values for duty purposes, and the manner in which the country had maintained its integrity.

"The tariffs enacted were high tariffs, but they were designed to meet an emergency and they met it," he said. "Whenever it became necessary to use extraordinary powers to protect the industrial life of Canada we did so, and left it to our fellow-citizens to decide whether we were right."

He was proud to say that to-day Canada, a nation of 10,000,000 people, was emerging from the depression the fifth among exporting countries of the world, the same position it had occupied before the depression.

FIXED TARIFF PERIODS
The Empire trade pact had established stability of trade through agreements that could not be terminated at will or caprice, said Mr. Bennett. They had been completed in the fall of 1932 and in their year of operation Canada had increased its exports to New Zealand by 9 per cent, to Australia

For several days in mid-Pacific the President Jefferson experienced ideal weather. The visibility was good, the sea was calm and there was an absence of wind. This enabled Capt. Lustie and his officers to study the current. After several days' observation, Capt. Lustie said he was convinced the Japan Current, the surface movement at least, was flowing opposite to its customary direction.

Ships crossing the north Pacific from Asia to this coast usually met westerly winds. For the last few weeks ships on this route have reported strong easterly winds, Capt. Lustie said. An ocean current, the captain explained, usually adds about a knot to the speed of a ship. If the vessel's speed is, say, seven knots, the current will bring it up to eight. But this voyage the Jefferson's speed was almost a knot below that ordered from the bridge, which proved, Capt. Lustie said, that something was the matter with the current.

The President Jackson, which arrived two weeks ago, three days late, had rough weather, but the change in the current could also be blamed for the delay. The Japanese motorship Hikawa Maru and the Blue Funnel liner Tancarville were also delayed in arriving here recently. The forthcoming voyage of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia, due to sail from Yokohama on Friday for Victoria will be interesting to mariners who will be anxious to hear Capt. A. V. R. Lovegrove's comments on this deflection of the Japan Current.

Anyone in Canada was free to trade with Russia except in the products named.

NO BANK FAILURES
It was a matter of pride that during all the stress and strain of the depression no Canadian bank or financial institution had closed its doors, said Mr. Bennett.

National and corporate obligations had been met in the terms in which the contracts were created.

"The cost of the project, running to $475,274,000, would be divided between the two countries with an eye to the already heavy expenditure made by Canada in waterways improvement," he said.

The treaty protects the rights of either country to development of power and further waterway development in its own territory, and secures a sufficiency of water in the lakes and the St. Lawrence to navigation.

Coming before the Senate at this time, the treaty may be expected to receive probably more favorable attention than it would have in the past. It would appear to have behind it the weight of an administration more firmly established and holding more public confidence than any other of recent years—an administration which, moreover, is devoted to the development of public works and particularly works toward which millions of dollars already stand pledged.

NUMBER INTRODUCED

Canadians To Hear Peace Addresses

Series Will Be Started Jan. 21 By Sir Robert Borden and Hon. E. Lapointe

Ottawa, Jan. 10.—A national peace study project to bring to every man and woman in Canada the importance of peace, was announced to-day by J. E. MacPherson, president of the Association of Canadian Clubs, and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, M.P., president of the League of Nations Society.

In "a letter to all Canadians," the details of the society's project were announced. For the first time in Canadian history, it was stated, an attempt was to be made through the combined use of the radio, the press and group discussion to have an all-Canadian study of a subject throughout the nation.

What is described as Sir Arthur Currie's last great message was used by Mr. MacPherson and Mr. Lapointe to emphasize the importance of their plan, and his question whether Canadians were bestirring themselves "in this night of hysteria which may end in war" was reiterated.

SUNDAY ADDRESSES
Eleven Sunday afternoon addresses have been arranged to introduce the various topics listed in the discussion and study outline. The addresses, which will be broadcast, will be as follows:

January 21.—Hon. Sir Robert Borden and Hon. Ernest Lapointe on "Canadian Responsibilities."

January 28.—Col. George A. Drew, president of the Toronto branch of the League of Nations Society in Canada on "Why Should Canadians Be Interested in World Peace?"

February 4.—Dr. R. C. Wallace, president of the University of Alberta, on "How Is Peace to Be Maintained by Force or Co-operation?"

February 11.—Dr. H. F. Munro, superintendent of education of Nova Scotia and former delegate to the Assembly of the League of Nations on "What Does Partnership in the Collective System Involve for Canada?"

WOMAN TO SPEAK
February 18.—Hon. Irene Parib, member of the Alberta government and former delegate to the Assembly of the League of Nations, on "Present Obstacles to Peace."

March 1.—John W. Dufour, editor-in-chief of the Winnipeg Free Press, on "Why Did the Collective System Fail in Manchuria?"

March 11.—Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Public Works and former delegate to the last Assembly of the League of Nations, on "Disarmament."

March 18.—J. M. MacDonnell, president-elect of the Toronto Board of Trade, on "How Can We Work for Peace in Canada?"

March 25.—Prof. T. W. L. MacDermot, national secretary of the League of Nations Society in Canada, on "How Can Canada Work for Peace in the World?"

April 1.—Hon. Ernest Lapointe and Brooke Claxton, Montreal, vice-president of the League of Nations Society in Canada, in "A Summary and Review."

Fourteen Put To Death By Afghans
Kabul, Afghanistan, Jan. 10.—Fourteen persons were executed yesterday for alleged complicity in the conspiracy resulting in the assassination of King Nadir Shah last November.

Among those put to death were the father and two uncles of Abdul Khamil, the student who shot and stabbed the monarch; three of Khalil's nephews; and Ghulam Nabi, an army officer and assistant master of the school where the shooting took place.

Khamil was executed in December.

Dublin Court To Rule On the O'Duffy Case
Judges Next Week Will Decide If Injunction Against Trial Before Military Tribunal To Be Made Permanent

By Joseph Dennigan, Canadian Press
Dublin, Jan. 10.—General Eoin O'Duffy, President Eamon de Valera's chief antagonist in the Irish Free State, is brought to trial on charges of sedition and incitement to murder charges if he is brought to trial. His published report of O'Duffy's speech at the little County Donegal town of Bellefountain on December 9 attributed to the Blue Shirt leader a statement that:

"Mr. de Valera and his party had murdered Kevin O'Higgins and Mick Collins because they said in 1922 and 1927 what the Pinnas Fall (De Valera's party) were saying now, that Mr. de Valera had now run away from the republic and whenever he arrested the real Republicans and put them on board beds in Mountjoy Prison he was entitled to the fate he gave Collins and O'Higgins; and that the policy of the De Valera government was to assassinate him (O'Duffy)."

General O'Duffy was arrested and imprisoned on the charges, but obtained release on a writ of habeas corpus. Then he succeeded in getting a high court order preventing trial by a military tribunal, as ordered by the government. Next Monday the high court will meet again to decide whether this injunction is to be made permanent.

Now almost the only member of the United Cosgrave opposition who maintained that the government was right.

Morrison, Taylor, Todd And Lawson Play Sunday In Exhibition Golf Match
On Sunday at the Victoria Golf Club an interesting thirty-six-hole exhibition match will be played with four of the city's leading amateur club swingers taking part. The engagement will bring together Alan Taylor and Jimmy Todd against Bob Morrison and Ken Lawson. Taylor is from Oak Bay, Todd from Gorge Vale and Morrison and Lawson from the Oaklands Club. The morning eighteen holes will start at 10 o'clock and the afternoon round at 1.30. Morrison is the holder of the city championship; Lawson is a former city junior titleholder; Taylor was runner-up in the P.N.W. held here last summer while Todd has long been a threat in amateur ranks of the Pacific Northwest. Capt. J. V. Perks, secretary of the Victoria Golf Club, stated to-day the public is invited to witness the match.

BULLET KILLS BOY IN SEATTLE

Shooting of Prescott Marion in Street Is Mystery; Police Question Acquaintances

Seattle, Jan. 10.—Mysteriously shot at a street intersection yesterday evening, fourteen-year-old Prescott Marion, son of Philip Marion, Seattle and San Francisco business man, died here early to-day.

Police this afternoon were questioning youths who knew the boy, on the theory he was accidentally shot by a friend. Powder burns were found on the shirt and necktie, indicating the shot was fired at close range. The boy died without explaining how he was shot.

Mrs. Dorothy Marion, mother of the boy, said he had left home about an hour before. He was bound for a drug store to buy a magazine. Apparently he did not reach the store. Two passersby found him lying in the street and thought he had been struck by an automobile. It was discovered he had been shot when a physician was called. The boy was able to give his name and address, but he said nothing about his injuries.

The father, president of the Continental Nut Company of San Francisco, is in California.

BRITAIN MAY HAVE SURPLUS
Actual Decrease in Income Tax Receipts Is One-fortieth of That Expected

London, Jan. 10.—Despite the fact the income tax schedule this year called for two equal instalments on last year's income, one due at New Year's and the other at mid-year instead of three-quarters and one-quarter respectively a year ago, reports show the taxpayers made a fine showing since the start of the year. Receipts to date total $44,410,000 compared with $47,380,000 last year.

Revenue at this period of the current financial year which ends March 31 is up $60,000,000 above the figures at the corresponding time last year. $150,000,000, compared with $135,000,000 a year ago. It is estimated the full year's operations will reveal a budget surplus.

The decrease of $2,970,000 in income tax receipts on the new basis compares with an estimated decrease of $115,000,000, of which $90,000,000 had been expected by reason of the changed instalment.

GREEK MINISTER VISITS LONDON
London, Jan. 10.—D. Maximos, Greek Foreign Minister, was in London to-day for a series of conferences with British officials at which a Balkan non-aggression pact is expected to be discussed by the state.

Although declining to reveal the purpose of his visit, M. Maximos announced he would see Sir John Simon, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Thursday.

He arrived here yesterday.

JAPAN TO AID MANCHUKUANS
Military Support Pledged Under New System With Pu-Yi as Emperor

Associated Press
Peking, China, Jan. 10.—Japan will guarantee aid in protecting Manchukuo under the government changes in that Japanese-assisted state through which Henry Pu-Yi will become emperor, it was disclosed here to-day.

Members of the Japanese legation said features of the coming changes would be:

Enthronement of Pu-Yi, twenty-eight-year-old present chief executive, once the child ruler of China; revision of the constitution and amendment of the Japanese-Manchukuo protocol pledging Japan military and naval aid in protecting the state.

(Dispatches from Tokyo indicated Pu-Yi's coronation would be held March 1.)

Manchukuo's capital will remain at Hsinking.

No change is planned in the flag, but members of the legation added a cabinet shakeup is expected.

Nanking, China, Jan. 10.—A high government official said to-day "a firm" would be taken against announced plans of the Japanese to make Henry Pu-Yi Emperor of Manchukuo.

LUMBER IMPORTS TO BE DECIDED
Ottawa, Jan. 10.—The British Government has not yet decided what action will be taken in regard to lumber shipments from Russia, according to information from London received yesterday by the Department of External Affairs.

No decision had been reached by the British Government either as to the quantity or price of Soviet lumber, according to the advice received by the department.

FOREIGN TONGUE HEARD IN COURT
Windsor, Ont., Jan. 10.—When Joseph Bachynsky, Sandwich East Township, appeared in court with his wife, charged with assaulting her, he launched into a violent speech in his native tongue.

"Now, now," remonstrated the magistrate, "this is no place to start an argument."

"He was just telling his wife she is an angel and he loves her," said the court interpreter.

The case was remanded a week.

Graft Stated Worse Evil Than Drink
Canadian Press
Brantford, Ont., Jan. 10.—With those persons who believed strong drink was the greatest evil on the American continent, St. Rev. Charles Allen Seager, bishop of the Huron diocese of the Anglican Church, told a service club meeting here he emphatically disagreed. Graft, not drink, was the greater of the two evils, he declared.

BRITISHER IS HELD AT COLON
Associated Press
Colon, C.Z., Jan. 10.—Alan Vivian Percival, thirty-five, a British subject claiming to be a Great War flier, was held in the Cristobal jail to-day at the request of San Francisco police, charged with being a fugitive from justice.

The San Francisco department told the local police Percival was wanted for grand larceny.

Percival was removed from the steamship Bergan as it passed through the Canal yesterday evening.

CHICAGO'S BIG MILK STRIKE ENDS; PRICES TO BE ARBITRATED
Associated Press
Chicago, Jan. 10.—The Chicago milk blockade was ended to-day with a truce reached between warring factions in a conference with Mayor Edward J. Kelly.

The mayor announced milk deliveries would be resumed this afternoon after five days of violence that had left Chicago almost milkless.

Arbitrators were named to assist farmers and dealers in agreeing on a price to producers.

It was stated Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace had telephoned from Washington to the Pure Milk Association that he would not intervene to set a price.

The San Francisco department told the local police Percival was wanted for grand larceny.

Percival was removed from the steamship Bergan as it passed through the Canal yesterday evening.

INSULL SOON MUST GO FROM GREECE
Associated Press
London, Jan. 10.—Foreign Minister Dimitri Metaxas of Greece declared in an exclusive interview granted the Associated Press here to-day that his government's decision that Samuel Insull must leave Greece by January 31 was final and irrevocable.

The former Chicagoan is wanted in the United States to face charges growing out of the collapse of his utilities empire.

Greek courts twice ruled against Insull's attempts to obtain extradition of Insull.

"The government is in a delicate position because of Insull's residence and has decided it can make no further extension of his permanent stay," M. Metaxas said.

Istanbul, Jan. 10.—High Turkish government officials here, discussing to-day the possibility Samuel Insull attempt to seek refuge in Turkey, said if he sought to enter this country without a passport he would be refused admittance and sent back by the route by which he came.

It was explained special cabinet permission is necessary to admit a person not having a passport.

Menace in Spokane's Water Supply Reported
Associated Press
Spokane, Wash., Jan. 10.—Fear the Spokane's entire water supply may have been contaminated by recent flood conditions was expressed to-day by Water Superintendent A. Lindsay.

Although the water table that supplies the city is higher than the Spokane River, high water may have caused a reversal of the flow, Mr. Lindsay said. In that event the city supply would be purified only when fresh water had replaced the affected quantity in the underground lake.

NANAIMO JUDGE PRESIDES HERE

Judge Barker, of Nanaimo, came to Victoria yesterday and presided over the opening 1934 session of the County Court in the absence of Judge Lampman, who is on vacation in the south. Joseph Orrico, who came here eight years ago from Italy and has been conducting a bootblack stand, appeared and informed the judge he wanted to become a Canadian citizen. He told the judge he was married and wanted to stay in this country.

Sydney Sangster of the Quarter Cab, and F. Smith, cashier of the Liquor Control Board, appeared in court and testified to Mr. Orrico's fitness to become a Canadian.

The judge will forward his recommendation to the Secretary of State.

at Ottawa. Dates for some half dozen trials scheduled for January here were then set by the judge and judgment debtors examined.

Heroic Dogs To Live Is Report

Dr. McKeown Says Bloodhounds Bady and Quathie Making First Rate Progress

Lady and Quathie, Jim Burdes's brave bloodhounds which were injured by a large cougar during a recent fight in the Shawnigan Lake district, will live and before long they are expected to be in as good condition as ever. Both are making first rate progress.

This was the welcome report which Dr. Harry McKeown gave this morning on the two animals which are now convalescing at his veterinary hospital. Both dogs are now up and around, and are eating heartily. Quathie is ready to be taken out any day, while Lady's lung, which was punctured when she was eluded by the cougar, is healing nicely, and her broken ribs are knitting well. She is still a little weak on her left front leg, however, owing to an injured shoulder which was torn loose by the cougar.

Their master, Mr. Burdes, was in to see them yesterday, being out in the woods for several days, and he was overjoyed with their excellent condition and the doctor's cheerful report. Since Dr. McKeown has been attending canines, he has probably never had so much public interest taken in any of his patients as in these two. Several visitors have been to see the heroic dogs and have admitted their wonderful courage while suffering from such extensive injuries.

DECREASE IN "CASUALTIES"

Fewer Students Dropped at Christmas From U.B.C. Roll; Some Have Courses Cut

By Times Special Representative
Vancouver, Jan. 10.—Things were pretty quiet on the western front, and markedly few casualties were reported as the 1,500 or so students at the University of British Columbia went back to work on Monday. It was fine, sunny weather here in this cup formed by the beautiful mountains, whose tops were jauntily touched with snow.

Only seven students fell by the way-side as a result of the Christmas exams. These B.A.C.'s (bounced at Christmas) include six artmen and one from applied science. Twelve others, five in arts and seven in applied science, had their units cut; in other words, their courses were shortened because of unsatisfactory exam results. President Klink noted three factors that contributed toward the considerably decreased casualty list. One was that the faculty members report better work this year, and a second that the number of students affected was smaller. A third factor was the experiment in giving those students who were strong in some subjects, a chance to continue them, though the obligatory elimination of the units in which they were weak means they will take longer to complete a normally four-year course of sixty units.

Last Sunday afternoon's boat carried over a surprisingly large number of Victoria students, some of whom took advantage of the sunny weather by staying on deck in an effort to be the first to see the sun. The boat was carrying a large U.B.C. Canadian officers' training corps detachment, which was returning from camp in Victoria. These uniformed boys, who, rather surprisingly, are practically all science men of the first or second years, got together a little concert party on board, singing among other things, "Who's Afraid of the C.C.F.," the C.C.F., the C.C.F.," then substituting "D.O.C." for "C.C.F." Artmen also came in for a ragging at their hands.

NEW LECTURER
Students in four economics courses at the University of British Columbia had a new lecturer when classes opened. The new appointee is William Henry Taylor, U.B.C. graduate of '28, who for the last five years has been studying and lecturing in United States universities.

Mr. Taylor's appointment is as lecturer in economics until June 30, and is occasioned by the removal to Victoria of Dr. W. A. Carrothers, who will be chairman of Premier Pattullo's economic council.

Mr. Taylor takes over Dr. Carrothers's three important courses in the Department of Economics, labor problems and social reform, money and banking, and the history of economic thought—as well as conducting one section of the large economics I class. Another leading figure at U.B.C. was missing when classes started again yesterday. He is Dr. G. M. Weir, head of the Department of Education, who is now B.C. Minister of Education. He has been granted leave of absence, and C. B. Wood, formerly of the Normal School at Victoria, is now a member of the department.

W. J. Tupper May Be Manitoba Governor

Winnipeg, Jan. 10.—According to reports current in this city, W. J. Tupper, K.C., will shortly be appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba to succeed Hon. J. D. McGregor, whose term will expire in February. No confirmation of the story is available, says The Winnipeg Free Press.

RESIGNATION RUMOR DENIED

BRIGHT FUTURE FOR AVIATION
J. E. Eve Tells of Thorough Instruction Given at Camp Borden By Government

A distinctly optimistic future for aviation in Canada is foreseen by J. Ernest Eve, well-known Victoria pilot, who bases his forecast on the brand of instruction being given at Camp Borden, Manitoba, by the Department of Civil Aviation in co-operation with the Department of National Defence.

Mr. Eve returned recently from the camp, where he completed a "two-month" instructors' training course and is now making plans to establish a training school here, embodying the teachings given at the federal station. This school, he expects to open on January 22.

He warmly praised the co-operation evidenced between the two federal departments in proving the course, and from his statements it would appear that the Dominion will be well equipped with first-class pilots when the Transcanada Airways line is realized.

All departmental instructors at the school must necessarily be perfect pilots. Mr. Eve stated, and for that reason, an excellent training is given those who undertake the course. The schedule includes blind and instrument flying as well as the teaching of beam flying, a recent innovation in Canadian aviation. While at Camp Borden, Mr. Eve put in an additional seventy-six flying hours.

The course was the latest for instructors and Mr. Eve was among eight Canadians who qualified. He spoke of the excellent equipment, which the camp has in hand and showed films of "shooting" with camera guns by which pilots and observers are taught fighting tactics by pictures.

While at Camp Borden, Mr. Eve saw John Plant, another well-known Victorian, who has been there some time, and Art Spruceston, an up-island boy, who has also been putting in considerable time in aviation.

NO NEW TAXES FOR QUEBEC

Assurance Given at Formal Opening of 1934 Session of Legislature

Quebec, Jan. 10.—A programme of varied social and labor legislation was forecast and assurance given there will be no new taxes in the speech from the Throne delivered yesterday by Hon. H. G. Carroll, Lieutenant-Governor, at the opening of the third session of the eighteenth Legislature of Quebec.

Outstanding in the programme as given were the following:
Creation of a system of municipalities may municipalize their electric power systems, if the taxpayers so desire.

Setting up of farms to give a new start in life to men coming out of prison.

Control over the price of milk in such a way as to improve the position of the farmers without increasing consumer prices.

Introduction of an insurance law seeking an end to the conflict in jurisdiction between the Dominion and the provinces.

Protection of woodsmen in the forests.

Control of electric rates.

Control of transportation by trucks.

Man Injured In Furnace Explosion

Winnipeg, Jan. 10.—Fred Priestley, forty-seven, lay in a hospital bed today fighting for his life and suffering severe pains from burns.

An explosion as he tended the furnace in his home Tuesday hurled him against the basement wall and set fire to his clothing. He peeled off the burning clothes, extinguished the fire and crawled up stairs, where he lay in bed until his wife returned home several hours later.

He suffered extensive burns on his chest, back and shoulders. He was in a semi-conscious condition when his wife returned home and was immediately rushed to the hospital.

Hopes for his recovery are held.

Ontario Student In Vancouver

London, Ont., Jan. 10.—Edward Kidd, Watford district farmer whose son Victor, a third-year student at Huron Anglican College here, was missing for several days, yesterday said he had received a letter from the youth indicating he was in Vancouver in the best of health.

Kidd apparently went direct to Vancouver from here. He had told classmates he was going to Watford for the New Year's holiday. In his letter to his parents, Kidd said he had sufficient funds to take care of himself.

A DECISION OVERDUE

In his address to the Vancouver Board of Trade last night, Premier Bennett referred to Article 21 of the Canada-United Kingdom trade treaty—the provision designed to prevent unfair competition in the British market for foreign goods at the expense of empire goods—and said "a favorable result to the efforts which are being made is practically assured, and there will be no frustration of the agreement because of Russian competition."

The Prime Minister and High Commissioner Ferguson have made strong representations to the British government pointing out that if it permits Timber Distributors Limited, an organization comprising about 160 firms of British lumber importers, to conclude an agreement for this year with Soviet Russia for the purchase of 450,000 standards of timber, approximately 900,000 feet board measurement, it will, to all intents and purposes, be denying Canada a share of the business to which she considers the Canada-United Kingdom treaty entitles her. The Canadian government contends that Russia's lumber is produced by state aid and, in the light of Article 21, has an advantage in the British market.

The importing firms, which are using every effort possible to get the agreement with Russia completed, naturally do not agree with the Canadian contention. There seems to be considerable confusion about what is happening in London with regard to this lumber contract and Canada's chances of getting it modified. A dispatch yesterday quoted The Morning Post as saying that the British government intended to overrule the tentative agreement to which we have referred, the newspaper understanding that instead of Timber Distributors Limited importing 450,000 standards the contract would be altered to call for only 300,000 standards, or approximately 600,000,000 feet board measurement.

A dispatch from London to-day, however, says the British government has reached no decision on the matter. High Commissioner Ferguson made inquiries in official circles yesterday, following the report that the contract was to be modified, and he is reported to have found no basis whatever for the suggestion made by The Morning Post. It will be recalled that the Canadian government and Mr. Ferguson were somewhat amazed recently to discover that this country's protest against a contract for such a large amount had been forwarded to Moscow for examination by the Soviet authorities.

The difficulties in the way of Canada cutting very deeply into Russia's share of Britain's lumber business have been referred to many times; but those difficulties are nothing like as formidable as they were, as this country's greater sales of lumber in recent months to the United Kingdom amply prove. It is extraordinary, however, that the British government does not make up its mind as to what it intends to do in the matter. If it does not consider Article 21 applies to this case, then it should say so. Canada thinks it does and has submitted her argument in support of it. A decision one way or the other seems very much overdue.

THE "ARYAN MAN"

Professor V. Gordon Childe, of the University of Edinburgh—who takes delight on occasion in demolishing the "Aryan" theories of Nazi Germany—contributes to the current number of History an article on "Races, Peoples and Cultures in Prehistoric Europe," which suggests some of the stumbling-blocks in the way of "race" history.

All living men to-day, Professor Childe says, belong to a single species, Homo sapiens. From the biological point of view the several races which seem so easily distinguishable are only varieties; they can interbreed and beget fertile offspring.

Though the traveler can not help noticing differences between the inhabitants of, say, Baghdad, Ankara, Athens, Berne and Stockholm, Professor Childe goes on, it is far from easy to define such differences scientifically. On closer examination it will be found that the populations of Iraq, Turkey, Greece, Switzerland, and so on, embrace a substantial variety of physical types; and many of these types may be recognized in most, if not all, the countries examined. He then explains the origin of "culture" and language:

The Nordic culture is not the creation of the Nordic race as such, but of a mixed population such as inhabits Denmark and southern Sweden to-day. A culture need not correspond to a group allied by physical traits acquired by heredity. Culture is a social heritage; it corresponds to a community sharing common traditions, common institutions and a common way of life. Such a group may reasonably be called a people. That is, indeed, the current use. The English people includes representatives of three distinct layers of prehistoric invaders as well as of Anglo-Saxons, Danes, Normans, Flemings, and later arrivals. But all now share, besides a common language and common institutions, quite a number of peculiarities in material culture, such as baths and water-closets. In the same way the Jews are a people.

At the end of the eighteenth century it was recognized that Sanskrit (the ancient language of the Hindus), Persian, Greek, Latin, the Celtic, Teutonic and Slavonic dialects all were related together, in much the same sort of way as French, Italian, Portuguese and Spanish. To this parent language the name Aryan was at first given. Quite legitimately it was inferred that there must have existed some human group that spoke the parent language:

At first, in harmony with the pre-scientific ideas of the age, Professor Childe points out, this group was regarded as a race. And so an Aryan race was postulated to speak the Aryan tongue, and all peoples who speak or have spoken an Indo-European language were described as belonging to the Aryan race. The absurdity of this manner of speaking was quickly recognized by educated persons, though it is still employed by highly-placed politicians. He concludes: "Max Mueller wrote that the man who spoke of an Aryan race was as great a sinner as one who spoke of a brachycephalic dictionary or a dolichocephalic grammar. It is needless to labor the point here. Language goes not with race but generally with the group we term a people; and so it is generally linked with culture, as previously defined."

THE U.S. NAVY PROGRAMME

One well-known United States publicist says "it is an ambitious and expensive programme which the United States Navy Department is asking Congress to approve. The expenditure of $100,000,000 a year for five years to bring the fleet up to a treaty parity basis would be a heavy load for the treasury to bear."

That the United States would be entirely within its rights in building right up to the treaty limits, this writer evidently agrees, as "for many years we have permitted our navy to remain below the status permitted it by international agreement; if we choose now to build it up, that is our privilege." He warns, however:

"But before we do so, it would be wise for us to consider just what the consequences might be. We do not want another armament race; we do not want to strain any of our international relations; we do not want to increase the suspicion that certain foreign nations harbor toward us."

"There are, in short, a lot of angles to this navy-building business; we need to consider all of them pretty carefully before we commit ourselves."

POOR TARIFF ARGUMENTS

Tariffs came in for some attention by Premier Bennett in his address to the Vancouver Board of Trade last night. He said the tariffs enacted by his government "were high tariffs, but they were designed to meet an emergency and they met it." He followed the statement with this: "Whenever it became necessary to use extraordinary powers to protect the industrial life of Canada, we did so, and left it to our fellow citizens to decide whether we were right."

The tariffs which have been operating during the last three years are high tariffs with all the frills and annoyances that the tariff makers at Ottawa could think of. Mr. Bennett says they were designed to meet an emergency and they met it. But it would be interesting to learn how the disruption of this country's external business helped to meet the emergency of which he speaks. If the tariffs imposed to "protect the industrial life of Canada" did protect the industrial life of Canada, how is it that there are now about three times as many idle workers as there were before he boosted the tariff?

The Prime Minister pointed with pride last night to, among other things, the increase in this country's business with New Zealand since the Ottawa trade agreements began to operate. It is quite true that in the twelve months ending last November our business with New Zealand was about $1,300,000 more than it was in the year previous—$5,400,000 against $4,100,000. But Mr. Bennett did not recall for the benefit of his audience that before his government abrogated the trade agreement with that Dominion our import and export business with her was worth nearly $40,000,000.

By boosting the tariff against New Zealand butter to eight cents a pound, the present government at Ottawa destroyed a $6,000,000 automobile export business. How was that meeting an emergency? How was that protecting the industrial life of Canada? Indeed, so enraged did New Zealand become that she practically put this Dominion in the matter of the tariff in the category of a foreign nation. To the Prime Minister's credit, he sent Mr. Stevens, his Minister of Trade and Commerce, to Honolulu to meet Mr. Downie Stewart from New Zealand to fix up another agreement. It will take a long time, however, to get back more than $30,000,000 worth of business, the difference between what it is now and what it was three years ago.

Of course the Prime Minister made no reference to butter when he mentioned the increase of business with New Zealand from $4,100,000 to $5,400,000. The reason he increased the duty to eight cents a pound was because, so he told the public in 1930, the Canadian dairymen were being ruined. They were getting only about thirty-nine cents a pound for their product from the wholesalers. Mr. Bennett, however, promised them, under the heavier duty, butter at fifty, or even sixty, cents a pound. At that time Canada was buying about $13,000,000 worth of butter from New Zealand; but there is no New Zealand butter coming into Canada now—and the dairymen are getting about twenty-six cents; less than twelve months ago the price was around twenty cents.

Whatever Mr. Bennett may say, the tariff policies of his government have increased unemployment, caused loss of revenue under many heads, and have had a very serious effect upon the financial condition of the country. He has protected the few at the expense of the majority. "Our fellow citizens" will render their judgment when they are given the opportunity. We predict they will say Mr. Bennett was not right in his method of meeting an emergency.

An Etobicoke lad who signed a confession of armed robbery because the police kept bothering him was acquitted by Judge O'Connell. It is doubtful if a man ought to be brought into court if there is no other evidence against him than his own confession. Loose Ends

We are discussed by superior folk—who find us rather amusing—but incredibly stupid—on our speck of dust—but it doesn't matter—because we shall be gone next Thursday week.

CONFERENCE

SOME OF THE more important inhabitants of the universe were chatting last night in a neighborly fashion, such as we don't often see down on this speck of dust which is known, for lack of a better name, as the earth.

"I observe," said the inhabitant of Mars to his friend from Saturn, "that scientists are now satisfied that the earth over there to the south, isn't inhabited after all."

"You would expect that from the scientists," said the visitor from Venus. "Why, I was listening in on the radio the other day and I heard as plainly as anything a scientist down on the earth there saying that no other planet, not even your home on Mars, my friend, was inhabited."

"Of all the nerve!" said the man from Mars.

"That's certainly a good one," said the jolly fellow who lived in centre of the Sun. "Imagine anyone on that little speck of a worn-out planet, the earth, talking about anybody at all! And assuming that they have the only life down there!"

"Oh, they're queer creatures on the earth, right enough," said the traveler from Saturn. "Move around on two legs, mind you, and have to stick to the ground, unless they get into machines. They think it's wonderful because they have just learned to fly with engines when all the rest of us have been flying for millions of years."

HEALTHY PLACE

BUT WHAT I can't understand," said the gentleman from Jupiter, "is why they imagine that none of us up here is alive."

"Oh, their scientists have proved beyond a doubt that life can't exist except in the temperature of their own silly little grain of sand," said the man from Uranus. "And even though their fish live in water and their worms in the ground and their sea serpents in a spot called Victoria, they still imagine that life can't exist elsewhere, in the Sun, for instance, which everyone knows is the most healthy spot in the universe, unless you're built idiotically like those earth people."

"You must make allowances for them," said the man from Arcturus. "They're very inferior animals, you know. Haven't developed a brain yet. Have only been out of the slime a few millions of years and lived in caves like animals the day before yesterday. Why, they actually fight still, like beasts, only more ferociously."

"Not really," said the man from the Sun incredulously.

Yes, a fellow on our star who has made a study of their thought processes, which is a thousand miles long and a hundred miles in circumference, tells me that they're almost always killing one another for no reason whatever."

"It hardly seems worth while, when they only live about a minute and a half, according to our time," said the man from Venus. "Why don't they enjoy themselves?"

"Oh, some of them have the quaint notion that they are superior to their neighbors, if you please," said the Martian. "Imagine one ant being superior to another of the same breed! Why, we settled all our quarrels a million years ago without a single killing," said the man from Saturn.

"We just played a couple of rubbers of bridge between the two sides of the quarrel and everything has been quite comfortable since."

GETTING COLD

DOWN THERE on the earth," said the visitor from Arcturus, "the chief industry is the manufacture of weapons with which to kill themselves and blow their entire civilization to pieces—that is, if you can call the primitive tribal habits of insects a civilization."

"Well, I suppose it hardly matters what they do," said the Sun man.

"After all, their earth is going to get cold in about six million years—that'll be next Thursday week up here—and then all their kind of life will be extinct. Then perhaps something worth while can live there. So the present inhabitants might as well have a good time while they may."

"Yes, and the funny part of it is," said the Saturn gentleman, "that they struggle all their lives for money down there and war over it and commit murder on a mass scale for it and govern all their lives by it when they will cease to exist, as you say, next Thursday week."

MONEY

WHAT IS MONEY? said the Sun man. "I never heard of it."

"It's supposed to be a medium of exchange," the Mars man explained. "It's supposed to represent goods. So if you have money you can buy things. But, of course, they long since ceased to use it for that. Oh dear, yes. Instead of goods or things they can use and have some fun with, they prefer to pile up large collections of money without using it at all."

"What for?" said the Arcturus man. "Hang on to a medium of exchange—when the oldest of them can't live more than fifteen minutes in our time?"

"You'd be surprised," said the Saturn man, "how proud these insects are. Why, they have classes of society, among themselves. Some of them even have titles to nobility to distinguish them from the others."

"That's a good one," laughed the Arcturus man. "Imagine titles among these insects! The lice on our world are fifty times the size of the earth men and, of course, a thousand times more intelligent. You might as well give them titles of nobility."

FAINT SPARK

NEVERTHELESS, they have a certain faint spark of intelligence—about that of a jelly-fish up here," said the man from Mars. "They have invented a number of crude tools. For instance, they have a device called a radio and a telephone by which they can talk to one another at great distances; for, of course, they haven't learned to communicate their ideas as we do without speech, which is a great disadvantage. But the queer thing is that while these poor insects have invented machines, as they call them, they don't let the machines work for them."

"No," said the Arcturus man. "No, they work for the machines; so that the more machines they invent the harder they work. Or rather I should say the less they can work and the more they starve. And the more goods they manage to produce, and the more food, the less they have and the more hungry they become. I gather that the next war, now in preparation, is going to be fought over that."

"It doesn't seem to make sense, even among insects," does it?" said the Mars man. "That is the only species I have ever heard of which has no instinct for self-preservation."

PRESERVATION

SELF-PRESERVATION? Why, bless you," said the Saturn man, "their entire life is devoted to self-preservation. Every tiny tribe tries to preserve itself at the expense of all the others. They work through what they call tariffs. These tariffs are designed to keep the living standard of the tribe above that of its fellows. But actually the result is to reduce the standard of everyone together. The lower the standard sinks and the worse off everybody becomes, the more they raise the tariffs. But they maintain their races intact."

"Races?" said the Sun man. "Oh, yes, they have races even among these microbes," said the Saturn man. "We couldn't detect any difference between them, of course, but I believe they can see infinitesimal variations of color. And that is enough to keep them perpetually at war."

"That's funny," said the Arcturus man. "Up here we are all utterly different in every respect, but no one seems that it keeps life from being too dull and standardized. Imagine those minute organisms worrying because some of them have a different color—and they'll all be wiped out together with their entire progeny next Thursday week."

"Well, no one will miss them, I'm sure," said the Venus man.

Other People's Views

THE GENTLE NAZARENE

To the Editor:—A correspondent in last Saturday's issue speaks of "the gentle Nazarene, who preached love and tolerance for all men and creeds," and in the same issue H. B. W. tells us that he understands the central theory of Christianity to be tolerance. Dealing only with the view of our Lord expressed in these statements, not with the subject matter of the two writers generally, we note that both advance a common, yet very inadequate and unhistorical conception of our Lord's attitude and character. Certainly, He was Love, incarnate, but too. He was Truth, and Truth must condemn sin, while Love dies that the sinner may go free.

Our Lord twice cleansed the temple in Jerusalem, driving out the multitude of hangers-on who generated sin to their own profit. Was this not the exhibition of a moral force of holy indignation, which was irresistible. Read the twenty-third chapter of Matthew's Gospel, with its eight-fold "Woe unto you," and its tremendous climax: "Ye serpents, ye generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell? And we see how feebly the term "the gentle Nazarene" describes our Lord. Truly He was all gentleness to the children, the sick and needy, and all those who looked to Him for help. But how scathing in His indictment of the self-righteous.

And however tolerant we may choose to be as to our creeds, there is no uncertainty as to the attitude of our Lord claims for Himself. He says: "That all men should honor the Son, even as they honor the Father. And when He is asked: 'What shall we do that we might work the works of God?' He says: 'This is the work of God, that ye believe on Him whom He hath sent.'"

How contrary to much present-day teaching, to find that our Lord placed belief in Himself before good deeds, and we are reminded of the Old Testament verse which says: "All our righteousnesses are as filthy rags." Of course, as we read we see that our Lord is not deprecating good works, except inasmuch as men put them in the place that only He can fill in securing our salvation.

THE HOME-OWNER AND RELIEF

To the Editor:—While everybody agrees that nobody should be allowed to starve to death, the method of providing for the unemployed down and out is getting to be a serious thing for those who have worked hard all their lives to provide themselves with a house to live in. Thousands of them have no money, work or relief pay, and furthermore are taxed to help to keep other unemployed men with support. These home-owners are a class of which we hear nothing from our members of Parliament or students of economics.

Take, for instance, a person who has no money, but who has property which brings in $26 per month, and out of this he has to pay insurance, taxes, interest on mortgage and keep the property in condition so that he is able to continue getting the $26 every month.

In my opinion the only way everybody could be treated fairly and equally would be for everyone who considers he does not get sufficient to live on, should be able to register at the City Hall, make a true statement of his or her income, and if it is shown that he has not so much income as the regular down and out unemployed, he should get assistance the same as other unemployed.

For instance, if a man on relief is getting $30 a month relief, then the person mentioned above, showing his expenses on the property he owns for insurance, etc., amount to $13 per month, then he should be allowed the difference between his net income of $17 per month and the $30 the man on relief gets, this difference being $13. Every case should be considered in this manner. It is manifestly unfair for a man who has spent all his life preparing against having no place to lay his head being deprived of this house he has worked so hard for and the man who has spent his spare time in idleness or pleasure to be fairly well provided for even at great cost to home-owners who, in many cases, are much worse off than non-owners. Will those able to do something to change this condition please take note and start something.

FAIR PLAY.

TO the young men of this province, with a number of whom I have discussed this question, I suggest—in all sincerity that within British Columbia there lies abundant adventure for those who have the eyes to see, abundant opportunity to employ all of endurance, all of courage, and in many cases

particularity his. It is for this very reason that war has never wanted for young blood. Too much, perhaps, to ask that they should consider "reason"—that must be won for they see only, or think they see therein, an opportunity open to them which has no equal in peace time. Suffering is the master which teaches them whereas a continent may be adequate to sustain a comparatively few men continually engaged in warfare and waste, yet the same continent may support millions engaged in peaceful pursuits. It is the same master who teaches that while "pygmy" may destroy it takes giants to build, and that the finest gold of adventure, that calling for the greatest courage and the greatest endurance, is seldom, if ever, found upon the battlefield.

To the young men of this province, with a number of whom I have discussed this question, I suggest—in all sincerity that within British Columbia there lies abundant adventure for those who have the eyes to see, abundant opportunity to employ all of endurance, all of courage, and in many cases

V.O.N. Gives Valuable Service At Low Cost

Local Public Nursing Service Proves Cheapest in Canada, Report Shows

Total of 1,730 Patients Nursed Last Year; 11,469 Visits Given Free

Carried on at the very low overhead cost of 75c per visit, "the lowest cost compatible with professional nursing service, and the lowest of any similar service in Canada," the Victorian Order of Nurses is providing an inestimable community service among the sick and needy of Victoria and district, 1,730 patients having been nursed and a total of 11,469 free visits paid in 1933.

This was revealed in the excellent report presented at the annual meeting of the local branch held yesterday afternoon, when in prosaic terms the head nurse, Miss Thornley, reviewed a year of intensive work and one of the most difficult in the history of the local branch.

"Living so near to the lives of the people directly affected by the social and economic conditions, our outlook cannot fail to be very much affected by it," was her simple, but moving comment, which told the nurses' sympathetic understanding of the problems faced by families who benefit by their kindly and efficient ministrations.

NURSING REPORT

Miss Thornley, the head nurse, in her analytical report showed that 13,512 visits had been paid last year, of which 11,469 were free, representing "many hours spent by the nurses in giving professional care with very little equipment and only the barest necessities to work with, and much time spent in getting in contact with local organizations for extra nourishments for needy patients."

A total of 1,730 cases were nursed during the year, made up as follows: 655 medical, 99 communicable diseases, 56 surgical, 133 prenatal, 8 interrupted pregnancy, 5 obstetrical, 40 infants of obstetrical, 39 postnatal, 231 infants of obstetrical and 103 special health instruction.

13,512 VISITS

To these patients, a total of 13,512 visits were paid, including: 841 prenatal, 315 obstetrical, 317 infants of obstetrical, 329 postnatal, 231 infants of obstetrical, 203 pneumonia, 334 tuberculosis, 469 other communicable diseases, 363 cancer and 893 chronic. In all 124 layettes were supplied to need cases.

CLASSES HELD

In addition to the nursing care, the nurses organized nineteen classes during the year, conducting in all 168 classes, with a total attendance of 2,778 patients. The classes were held in the homes of the patients, and the nurses gave instruction in mothercraft, health and social hygiene. These classes also addressed forty-one meetings on health matters.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Mrs. W. F. D. Pemberton, in her presidential report, spoke of the difficulties of financing owing to the tremendous number of free visits and the difficulty of collecting fees from patients. The grant given by the city, the generosity of friends of the order and of the Kiwanis Club, however, enabled the branch to carry on successfully.

"During the year, 1,730 patients were entered on our books, and 13,512 visits were paid, 11,469 of which were free visits, therefore the free visits given were greatly in excess of those of previous years."

"We are most grateful to the medical profession of Greater Victoria for their generous co-operation and especially for the assistance of Dr. Young and Dr. Felton," the report continued. "The Junior Auxiliary has been a great asset to our branch, having done a lot of helpful and valuable work for us in the last year. Bishop Crigge, Chapter of the I.O.D.E. Women's Institute, Mrs. Beckett's Circle, Mother's Union, the Ready to Help Circle of the Klips' Daughters, Metropolitan Life, church organizations, and The Times and The Colonist daily newspapers for the publicity they have given to our work."

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

The treasurer, Mrs. F. V. Longstaff, reported receipts for the year amounting to $10,214.42, plus cash balance in hand at the beginning of the year, $428.49. Included in this amount were provincial government, city of Victoria and Oak Bay municipality grants amounting to $3,200. Disbursements totaled $9,932.75, including salaries of nurses, motor car upkeep, rent, insurance, drugs, stationery, sewing materials. The cash balance in hand at the end of the year was $732.16.

In addition to the reports, election of officers took place, but balloting was dispensed with by the return, by acclamation, of the entire executive as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. J. W. Fordham Johnson; president, Mrs. W. F. D. Pemberton; vice-presidents, Mrs. Glen Holland and Mrs. Oswald Parker; secretary, Mrs. Norman Yarrow, and treasurer, Mrs. F. V. Longstaff.

HEALTH OFFICER

Dr. Richard Felton spoke of the valuable public health work accomplished in the city by the "hard, strenuous grind" imposed on the nurses by the difficult times, also to the excellent results achieved by the health classes started among the Chinese and in the city.

The work of the Victorian Order was reflected in the remarkably low death rate, low maternal and infant mortality rate, and the very low incidence of communicable disease. He paid warm tribute to the ready and splendid co-operation given to his department by the nurses of the order.

KIWANIS REPRESENTATIVE

S. J. D. Clark, president of the Kiwanis Club, congratulated the order on its fine work, and expressed appreciation of the excellent work to which the nurses of the order had put in through the Christmas seal fund, had been put in the prevention of tuberculosis.

DR. A. G. Price added his mead of congratulation to the branch on its excellent and most efficient work. He recalled his early days in medical work in Dublin nearly fifty years ago, and the many cases in the slums of that city, handicapped by the lack of efficient nurses, comparing it to his later years in Victoria when, as city health officer for many years, he had been most efficiently assisted by the members of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

At the close of the meeting tea was served.

MONTHLY REPORT

At the monthly meeting which preceded annual meeting, Miss Thornley reported 178 patients nursed during December, including 100 medical cases, 12 communicable diseases, five obstetrical, twenty-three prenatal, one interrupted pregnancy, three infants of obstetrical, twenty-four postnatal, ten health instruction, special. To these, a total of 1,386 visits were paid.

Donations were gratefully received in December from: Miss Martin, Mrs. W. M. Allam, Captain Kelley and Co., Mrs. Grahame, Mrs. Gill, Mrs. Cameron, Mrs. Beckett, Mrs. Duke, Mrs. H. Lawson, Mrs. O. Hartley, Mrs. McInnes, Mrs. Wiles, Mrs. Watt, Mrs. Byland, Mrs. Fletcher, Mrs. F. Richardson, Mrs. Roberts, The View Royal Neighbors, Mrs. Herbert, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Frank, Mrs. W. P. D. St. Andrew's Guild Reviews Busy Year

At the regular and annual meeting of the Women's Guild of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held in the lecture room on Monday afternoon, Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell conducted inspiring devotional exercises fitting for entrance into the work of the new year. The loyal spirit and united effort of the members, revealed in the annual reports of secretary and treasurer, were evidenced by the progress which those reports showed. In addition to the problems of their own church, active interest and participation in the work of the Traveler's Aid, Local Council of Women, Victoria, Women's Institute and the Protestant Orphanage, substantial aid to the needy of the Peace River District and Saskatchewan gave evidence of the wider influence of the guild during 1933.

POSTAL CARRIERS' CHRISTMAS TREE

Children of Local Mail Men Enjoy Entertainment at Foresters' Hall

At the Foresters' Hall Saturday, the carriers of the local post office held their Christmas tree for children. Some sixty youngsters, together with their parents, were present.

Games, consisting of junior olympics, were enjoyed and an excellent supper was served. A visit from Santa, who distributed presents to the children, preceded an excellent entertainment, followed by dancing.

During the evening G. H. Gardiner, the postmaster, summed up the happy happenings during the last two years in local postal circles.

Arrangements were in the hands of a committee, consisting of E. Paver, chairman; H. Smith, F. Laif, F. Tucker and F. Walters, to whom a hearty vote of thanks was given. The entertainment numbers were well received. The programme being as follows: Jessie Pollock, recitation and sailor's hornpipe; Agnes and Evelyn Finn, specialty dance; Theresa Constable, recitation; Lois Russell, ballet dance; Dorothy Wain, recitation; Evelyn and Agnes Finn, tap dance; Bobby McVie, Scotch songs, accompanied by Dorothy McVie; Barbara McVie, recitation; Muriel Pollock, step dance; Lois Russell, tap dance; Geo. Little, recitation; Bert Muir, the keyboard marvel; Shorty Harmon, Lancashire clog dance in ragtime; Harry Hutchinson and Jack Fulton, comedy team and instrumental; Stanley and Stan, comedian in "Burlington Bertie"; Shorty Harmon, jazz clog dance. Stan James appeared on behalf of Santa Claus.

POLICE SEARCH FOR PROSPECTORS

Vancouver, Jan. 10.—Provincial police are searching for Aeneas Towers, a man who disappeared from a party of thirteen, who were last seen at Finlay Forks, December 6.

The request was made by Towers' brother, Ernest F. W. Towers, fur buyer, Vancouver.

The two young men had been prospecting in the Ingenska country. They told Dan McGraw of Kimberley, who saw them at Finlay Forks a month ago, that they would come out by Prince George via the Parnip River. McGraw came out by way of Edmonton.

CHINESE GIRLS WEARING FURS

M. Segerman, Shanghai Merchant, Predicts Demand For Canadian and U.S. Skins

Chinese women, like their Occidental sisters, are inclining now to the wearing of furs, and because of this modish departure, China offers a potential market for furs, states M. Segerman, Lithuanian fur merchant of Shanghai, who passed through Victoria yesterday aboard the St. President Jefferson for Seattle.

It is in the larger coast cities of Shanghai and Hongkong, as well as in Nanking and Canton, that stylishly-dressed native women may be seen wearing furs and fur-trimmed gowns, the fur merchant explained.

He believes that within a few years, China, which is a fur-exporting country, will be importing furs from Canada and the United States, because of the finer skins obtainable. The Kolinsky and other furs from the interior of China find a good market in Canada, Mr. Segerman says, as do the skins of the muskrat, mink, and marten, and Montreal being the main import centres. Canadian Beaver and other high-grade furs, providing the price is right, should find an increasing market in the fur trade of the Orient, in the opinion of the fur merchant.

NATIVE OF KOVNO

Mr. Segerman is a native of Kovno, capital of Lithuania, but after leaving college he left his country for Shanghai, which city he now makes his home. He was last through here aboard the Empress of Asia, by which ship he sailed in November for the Orient.

After visiting New York, where he will take base for the fur trade, Mr. Segerman will return to the Orient.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

Peanut butter can be used in many ways to give variety to winter menus. It is generally recognized as a sandwich filling, but seldom worked into as many other dishes as it could be. Peanuts themselves are an excellent food, comparing favorably with meat. The quality of peanut protein has been analyzed by the chemists of the United States Food Bureau and found to be remarkably rich in the essentials of high quality protein.

Comparing the fat content of peanuts, beef steak and eggs, a table of comparative food values gives peanuts 38.6 per cent, steak 20.4 per cent, and eggs 11.4 per cent.

Peanuts also contribute 24.4 per cent carbohydrates, while steak and eggs furnish none.

RICH IN MINERALS

The total number of calories provided by each of these foodstuffs reveals an amazing comparison. Eggs supply 1,330 calories per pound, steak 1,230 calories per pound, and peanuts 2,490 calories per pound.

As to mineral content, peanuts are richer in calcium and phosphorus than either steak or eggs. Iron is .001 per cent higher in steak and eggs than in the nuts.

The vitamin content of peanuts is lower than that of eggs, but otherwise the vitamins are the same as those supplied by the ordinary sources of protein.

Naturally, peanut butter provides all these qualities, but in a form that is easier to digest than the whole nuts. In their natural state peanuts are rather difficult to masticate and few people like to chew them thoroughly. The high fat content makes them slow of digestion even in the butter, but nut oils are not indigestible, and the butter is a most useful form that the digestive juices can act quite rapidly.

Peanut butter toast is very simple to make and is a good lunch or supper dish for children. Spread hot dry toast with peanut butter. Cut in half-inch squares and arrange on hot plates. Pour over medium white sauce, using one cup sauce for four slices of toast.

PEANUT BUTTER AND POTATO CROQUETTES

One-half cup peanut butter, two cups mashed potatoes, few drops onion juice, one-half teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon pepper and egg yolk. One teaspoon minced parsley, milk. Use white of egg for crumbing. Mix ingredients in order given, using just enough milk to make moist. Shape into balls and roll in fine dry bread crumbs. Dip in white of egg slightly beaten with two tablespoons water. Roll again in crumbs and fry in deep hot fat. The fat should be hot enough to brown an inch cube of bread in forty seconds. Drain on crumpled brown paper and serve with tomato sauce or creamed peas.

TO-MORROW'S MENU

Breakfast—Grapefruit sections, cereal, cream, fried cornmeal mush, maple syrup, milk, coffee. Luncheon—Cream of peanut butter soup, croquettes, apples cooked in cranberry juice, peanut butter cookies, milk, tea. Dinner—Chile con carne, salad of mixed greens with French dressing, steamed fish pudding, milk, coffee.

WILL INSPECT OLD PICTURES

Native Sons of B.C. to Join Native Daughters to View Victoria of Old Days

Initiation of four new candidates and the arrangement of a joint meeting with the Native Daughters of British Columbia, featured the well attended meeting of the Native Sons of British Columbia in the K. of P. Hall, Broad Street, Monday evening.

R. Clark, A. Berry, Lorimer and J. Duncan were accorded admittance into the order with due ceremony at the function.

Plans for the joint meeting were advanced with the announcement that the organizations would have the pleasure of viewing pictures of Victoria in the old days at the gathering.

At the close of the meeting an excellent supper was served under the direction of the entertainment committee and an enjoyable musical programme was presented.

THREE DIE WHEN PLANE DESTROYED

Associated Press

Children, Tex., Jan. 10.—Three persons were killed when a plane near Mangum, Okla., crashed in flames near here yesterday.

The victims were Paul Powers, the pilot, and Mr. Bruce Smith, who lived on a ranch near Mangum. The plane had flown to Children from Mangum with two passengers when Smith, a prominent rancher, and his wife asked to be taken aboard.

Soon after the plane went up the engine faltered several hundred feet in the air and the ship burst into flames.

40 Run-Down People Benefit In Test at Hospital

Recently at a leading Canadian hospital a scientific test was made of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in restoring energy and strength to a group of 40 students who, studying hard for examinations, were more or less run-down in health. These volunteer patients were blood-tested before and after a five weeks' treatment with this remedy.

The first blood test showed these patients—male and female—had a condition known as "low blood count." Their blood was deficient in hemoglobin and red blood corpuscles. These vital blood elements, and they alone carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs and nourishment from your food to every part of the body. Naturally, if your blood is below normal in them, your health is below normal.

Many people have a low blood count without knowing it. If you are always tired, listless, exhausted and breathless on exertion, nervous, pale, lack appetite, the chances are your blood count is low.

If these are your symptoms, start taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as did these 40 "hospital-tested" patients. Because, when their blood was tested, again, after a five weeks' treatment, almost without exception they showed splendid increases in their blood count, raising as high as 22 per cent, and, with it, a return of energy, vigor and zest for living.

Start the treatment at once. You are taking no chances. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are hospital-tested. Children and young people in many cases need this proven remedy as much as adults. Your druggist can supply you—50c. a package.

Individual reports on these 40 patients, certified by the hospital pathologist, are on file. (Adv.)

AID SOCIETY DROPS MOVE

Amendment of Orders For Children, Seeking Higher Allotment, Withdrawn

Withdrawal by the Children's Aid Society of an application for amendment of orders on city children in care of the society, which aimed to secure a straight allotment of four dollars a week, was announced to the health committee of the City Council to-day.

The action means the city will not have to pay the higher amount sought by the aid society for the keep of the children. This will probably relieve the civic body of an increased grant to the home.

Higher allotments were sought by the aid society some weeks ago.

FIRST RECITAL WELL RECEIVED

Large Audience Grooms Opening of Twilight Series at Metropolitan Church

The Metropolitan United Church series of twilight recitals opened on Sunday with a delightful programme presented by the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Choir, directed by Jesse Longfield, consisting of anthems which fully demonstrated the skillful balance and one qualities of the organization.

A large congregation heard the opening of the series, which augurs well for the attendance at the subsequent recitals, to be given every Sunday.

Among the numbers presented were: "I Heard the Voice of Jesus" (Mansfield); "Holy, Holy, Holy" (Alcock); "Hark! A Thrilling Voice" (Thimann); "Still, Still With Thee" (Council); "Saviour, When Night" was a quartet selection given by Mrs. Downard, Mrs. Sowerby, William Draper and W. Trevett, and the following of sacred solos: Miss Isabelle Crawford, soprano; Miss Evelyn Telford, soprano; and A. W. Trevett, baritone.

Mr. Longfield offered a violin solo, "Romance in A. D." Edward Brown was the organ accompanist.

PENDER ISLAND

Pender Island, Jan. 10.—The annual meeting of the Women's Institute, held in Hope Bay January 3, was well attended, Mrs. S. P. Corbett presiding until the election of officers, when the chair was taken by Mrs. J. S. Stigings.

A letter was read by the secretary from a women's institute in New Zealand expressing a desire for correspondence with this institute in order to bring about closer relationship. A summarized report of the work accomplished was given by Mrs. A. H. Menzies. Election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. S. P. Corbett; first vice-president, Mrs. Percy Grimmer; second vice-president, Mrs. W. B. Johnston; secretary, Mrs. William Falconer; treasurer, Mrs. H. T. Adams. It was decided to hold meetings on the first Thursday of the month, instead of Wednesday.

Following the business a social time was enjoyed, Mrs. S. P. Corbett and Mrs. Stigings contributing solos, and Mrs. Menzies and Mrs. McNeill reading. Tea was served by Hope Bay members.

CALL OF THE WEST

BY R. G. MONTGOMERY

"You're awfully sweet, Dad," she whispered.

Asper grunted. "Sorry to have made a row." He faced them and his old smile struggled through. "But I never did have anyone trim me like this man. Ball, has been doing."

Dona realized that her father was well on the way to recovery. This last shock had not weakened him as the first had. She was eager to get him out of the three rivers, however. Once away, he would be able to forget that he had not made good his threats against Ball.

"You'll be able to move to-morrow," she said gently.

Asper shook his head. "I hate to hold you kids up but I'll have to stay now and see this through. Dudley, here, will want to try out his ideas a little longer."

Dona turned to Dudley but he did not come to her rescue so she did not push the idea of leaving next day. One thing made her glad they were staying. Stanley Black had failed her in several ways. Now she hoped to meet him again and to correct an impression she feared she had left with him. She did not realize how soon she would meet him or under what trying circumstances.

CHAPTER XXIV

For the first time since their arrival at the three rivers Dona and Dudley were now aware of Swerger's seriousness in the matter of capturing Stan Ball. All night after the raid on the main office men were riding and running about on foot. Morning found the entire camp roused for action, with the big timber boss handing his men as he would have on a river drive.

Dudley found the whole thing intensely exciting. The plan was to comb Folly Mountain as clean as a sweep. Not a foot of the high country was to be left unchecked. Every brown bear, cougar and mountain sheep was to be routed out of hiding. It was a little like a small crusade. Dudley could not quite realize that the whole thing was not just a colorful pageant. The heavy guns and the plentiful supply of ammunition added the grim touch necessary to dispel illusions; those guns were muzzle-loaded with real powder.

Dona went to see Carter. She found him outside his office door, sunning himself. Carter was slender with a weak droop to his shoulders. He lifted a pair of colorless eyes to Dona's face as she greeted him.

"You are Mr. Carter?"

The man recognized Dona's daughter but he did not get up. He nodded his head and continued to sun himself. "I came to see if you were badly injured last night and to say that we are sorry. Father cannot get out just yet." Dona watched Carter rub his patchy growth of black beard on his chin.

"I reckon nobody ever had a closer scratch," Carter held up a bandaged hand. "I reckon the Timber Company owes me some extra for this." His pale eyes lighted a trifle as they fixed themselves on Dona's face.

"Certainly. Dad will see that you are properly rewarded," Dona could not help wondering where Swerger had collected so many odd characters. Carter was an oddity and no mistake. Of course one such man would stay and work under the lash of Swerger's tongue and fists. Three Rivers was certainly a camp of the old school.

Carter smiled a thin smile but did not add anything.

"You knew Ball—that is, before he started his fight against the Timber Company?" Dona was seeking information.

"Sure. Knew him for a strapping big copperhead that rode a black horse."

"And you saw him last night?" Dona put the question abruptly.

"Sure I saw him," Carter returned Dona's smile with a defiant glance and that felt as she met it. "He stepped right in through the big window and goes for his guns. Carter made a shift and dropped his good hand to his side."

"And what did you do?" Dona bent forward, all interest.

"I went for the gun I have in my desk. Then he cut loose and shot my hand." Carter touched the bandage gingerly.

Dona nodded sympathetically. "Remember, I will see that father rewards you." She gave him a smile and walked back toward the scene in the big yard. Dudley was riding at a gallop looking for her. He plucked up and pulled his horse to a ploughing stop, in true grandstand style. "Where have you been hiding?" he demanded.

"I was poking about," Dona smiled as she noted the flush of excitement on Dudley's face.

"The boys have all gone. I'll be back after a while." He bent and kissed her hand lightly, then galloped off in a great cloud of dust.

"Dona waited to him until he had vanished. In her heart she half hoped Ball was already beyond the rim of Folly Mountain. If he were not there was little chance of his ever leaving the slope alive. With a little shake of her head Dona ran to her father's room."

Asper was sitting up. It was plain that he had been busy giving orders, as the floor was tracked with boot marks and cigarette stumps. Dona crossed to his side and perched on the foot of his bed.

"You have been violating my orders again!" she shook a finger under his nose. "Do you want me to move in here and make you behave?"

Asper grinned. "I'm the usual ungrateful patient. When I get well I'll fire my loving nurse." He caught her hand.

"You are not well and you're not firing this nurse!"

"Doc says I can sit in a chair on the porch. Now, as a good nurse, you'd better help me out there. Asper proceeded to swing his feet over the edge of the bed. "My slippers, nurse!" he called, as though Dona were in the next room.

A tender smile spread over the girl's face as she ran for the slippers. Asper was nearly his old self again and would be well in no time. For a moment she was really happy and a great weight lifted from her heart.

Asper insisted on having his chair placed so that he could watch the slope of the mountain and the upper clearing. He was eager to get the very first news of the capture of Ball.

"They'll have him before noon, sure as shootin'," he rumbled.

Dona smiled and seated herself on the top step. She was eager to see what happened but she was not really anxious to have this hunt succeed. A thought kept bobbing up in her mind that would not be stillled easily. Here were dozens of men going out to get one lone bandit. The odds against Ball were 100 to one. He was a lone wolf, a killer, but that did not lessen the odds.

Dona's thoughts turned to the previous day and a cloud passed over her happiness. Stanley Black had been such a disappointment. More than a disappointment, Dona knew, though she refused to admit it. With white sunlight playing through the green needles above her head and a cedar bird calling from the jack pine behind the building, she knew a desolation of spirit that even the recovery of her father could not banish.

A rider appeared at the edge of the clearing and Dona roused herself. The man came down through the cutting at a gallop. As he came into view of the porch below a dozen men leaped from the shade of the saddle house and ran for their horses. Dona watched the oncoming rider and noticed that he headed for the corral. It was evident from the way he leaned far over the horse's neck that he was bringing news. "Run down to the corral and see what has happened," Asper Delo's voice shook with excitement as he called to another man.

"I'll be back in a minute," she replied over her shoulder as she ran down the steps.

The rider was pulling his mount to a sliding halt as Dona reached the corral. Malloy was first to reach him. "News!" the tall puncher drawled. Nothing seemed to ruffle or excite him. "Plenty!" the man grunted, sliding from his horse. He seemed to enjoy holding back his information.

"Have they got him?" Dona burst out.

"Got him cornered and the gang is closing in on him. He was trying to make a break over the hill and into the cow country. The gang is up on the slope at the fork of the Blind River trail. They were all the rest of the men out there to help pull the net tight around him. There sure is going to be some shooting!" The man slapped his other-corned horse. "Get me another mule."

"Get the roan ready and slip my rifle into the scabbard," Dona ordered. Malloy gave her a searching look that failed into a cynical squint. "You got the fever?" he asked, shortly.

"Possibly," Dona met his gaze squarely. "But get my horse!"

"O.K., ma'am," Malloy bowed stiffly and vanished into the saddle house.

NEW "V" CLUB IS ORGANIZED

Adanacs Start Career By Challenging Quad Club to Basketball Match Friday

Formation of a new group in the young men's section of the Y.M.C.A. was announced yesterday morning by Archie McKinnon, physical director of the local branch of the association. The new club, which will go under the name of the Adanacs, follows the same lines as the other organizations in the section.

At a meeting Monday evening Harold McLean was elected president. Carl Cortes vice-president, and Chuck Sharpe secretary-treasurer. Another meeting will take place to-morrow evening at the color in the "V" building to complete the organization of the new body.

The Adanacs have already launched out on their career by issuing a challenge to the Quad Club for a basketball match Friday evening at 9 o'clock.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel!"

THURSDAY, JANUARY 11, 1934

Kindly stars dominate to-day, according to astrology. It is an auspicious day for those who exercise authority or are under a beneficent influence that encourages applications for positions or promotions.

This should be a favorable day for initiative unless by a woman. Things started under this direction of the stars should reach success, if controlled by men.

The planetary government is not fortunate for women, who should refrain from important activities while the configuration prevails.

Many divorces are indicated. Astrologers foretell a reaction in favor of lasting marriages to be a final rending of ties that is more general than ever before.

Good news of bad change in which fortune seems to be benefit greatly as serious events and before the end of winter, it is promised.

This should be a lucky day for signing contracts or leases of any sort. Profit is promised.

Although theatres to-day are not well patronized, it may be a final rending of the stars making for changes in which popularity swings away from established policies.

Persons who have been heavily interested in research along scientific or psychic lines may find a year of pleasure and prosperity. Many who have been heavily interested in research along scientific or psychic lines may find a year of pleasure and prosperity.

Among those who have celebrated it as a birthday are Byrd Taylor 1825, traveler and writer and his brother Alexander, Donald, 1815, Canadian statesman. (Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

BOMBS AT VIENNA

Vienna, Austria, Jan. 10. (Associated Press)—A series of ear-splitting bomb explosions around Vienna's famous Ringstrasse yesterday answered Chancellor Dollfuss' proclamation of a ruthless campaign to suppress "Nazism." No injuries were reported, but crowds were thrown into a panic.

JOHN MCCORMACK SINGS TO-NIGHT

A musical stroll beginning at Niagara will be taken by the Ramblers under the leadership of John McCormack. The programme "Niagara Moon," "Tempest," and "Swing Little Thing," including with "Mama's" Ball, K.V.L.

The vocal finale of McCormack's "Niagara Moon" will be featured by Albert Spaulding in a recital which will also include "Vaughan's" and "Frederick's" ballads. An old favorite and a rarely heard work of Debussy will complete Spaulding's programme. Thibault's solo will include "KOL." K.V.L.

A programme given over to some of Edward Grieg's most inspired songs will be played by an orchestra led by Emil Kol. Grieg, who championed the true Norwegian spirit in his music, is called for his brilliant and humorous work with the solemnity of some of his passages. K.V.L.

Walter Huston, made famous by his screen characterization of Abraham Lincoln and his role in "Gabriel Over the White House" will do a scene from one of his most recent productions, "The Sign of the Cross." The latest sensation of the air waves, Harry Satterly's "Campus Chorus."

The customary variety of drama, including the musical review "Frederick's" and "Vaughan's" ballads. An old favorite and a rarely heard work of Debussy will complete Spaulding's programme. Thibault's solo will include "KOL." K.V.L.

The comedy of George Burns and Gracie Allen and the music of Guy Lombardo's Royal Canadians will combine in a half-hour broadcast originating in Los Angeles. K.V.L. K.V.L.

Another half-hour of musical and variety entertainment by the popular Warner Pennsylvanians will include the humorous singing of "Frederick's" and "Vaughan's" ballads. An old favorite and a rarely heard work of Debussy will complete Spaulding's programme. Thibault's solo will include "KOL." K.V.L.

Nicholas Kouloukos, flautist, will be featured as soloist with the orchestra in the playing of Godard's lovely "Waltz" during the musical review "Frederick's" and "Vaughan's" ballads. An old favorite and a rarely heard work of Debussy will complete Spaulding's programme. Thibault's solo will include "KOL." K.V.L.

Warden Lewis E. Lawes' graphic and absorbing story of day-by-day life in the walls of Sing Sing will continue in the second of a new series of broadcasts. "Twenty Thousand Hours in Sing Sing," which is presented in half-hour programmes, is taken from Warden Lawes' book of the same name. KOMO.

Irving Berlin favorites, spanning the years from his first success to his latest will be the high spot of the Stars of the West programme. The stars of Berlin tunes will be heard including "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and "Easter Parade." K.V.L.

Seven Stars programme will take the radio dialer to Nora Bore, called by many the greatest moment ever built, located on the banks of a river in the back lands of Java. K.V.L.

Thinks Commission Should Run Saanich

Ward Five Candidate Urges Government Control; An- other Says Reorganize Municipality

Policies ranging from complete reorganization of municipal departments to the installation of a commission to take over the affairs of the municipality, coupled with the assurance from the reeve that Saanich had met all its financial obligations and could anticipate wiping off its deficit in 1934, were presented by candidates in the municipal election to electors of Wards Five and Six yesterday evening.

In Ward Five three candidates are contesting the council post, while Councillor L. C. Hagan has been returned by acclamation in Ward Six.
The former meeting, held in the Royal Oak Hall, was presided over by John L.
Swales and the latter, held in the Keating Temperance Hall, by H. E. Tanner.

Candidates for council and reeveship were heard, and also F. G. Aldous, who is seeking office as a school trustee.
The other school board candidates addressed a well-attended meeting at Tillicum School in Ward Seven, where reviews of the 1933 work of the board were presented by Trustees Albert E.
Hull and Walter P. Jeune, seeking re-election. The Ward Five meeting was attended by nearly 100 persons, who gave the candidates attentive hearings.

Those addressing the meeting were Reeve Crouch, Edward Wilkinson and John Reid, for the reeve-ship; F. G.
Hagan, for council, and Councillor
H. D. Cotton, John Oliver and Adams
Edwards for Ward Five councillor, and Councillor L. C. Hagan in Ward Six.

Do you think for one moment that the men on the council are not interested in economy and want to raise your taxes? They are taxpayers as well as you," declared the reeve, replying to charges of previous speakers.

One candidate, he said, denounced borrowing, and in the same breath advocated the installation of sewers.

At the beginning of 1933 the council was faced with a $38,000 deficit because it had been saddled with extra costs after the 1932 budget had been completed, said the reeve.

When the books were closed last year, there was $25,000 at the bank in notes. Although this was so, there was $12,000 in cash and $6,000 out in cheques. This made an actual cash balance of $6,000, while the reduction for the year, total $19,000.

In the coming year, the reeve hoped the entire deficit could be wiped off.

These reductions, however, had not been possible without municipal cooperation and tribute was paid to the fine work of the school board.

The reeve referred to the increase in improvement taxes, but averred this was better than the increase in the land levy, which would cause the reversion of hundreds of vacant lots.

DEPARTMENTAL COSTS

He reviewed work and expenditures in the various departments during the last year. There had been little accomplishment in public works because there had been no money for materials. It had been difficult to find work for unemployed which would not require materials. He drew attention to the fact that in Vancouver unemployed did not work for their allowance, while in Victoria they only worked half-time.

The reason in both cases being there was no revenue to be donated towards materials.

The governments, he explained, did not contribute on the one-third basis towards the cost of materials.

There had been criticism that no construction work had been accomplished by the relief department.

"What about the Gorge Bridge on which Saanich labor was used, and the improvements to school grounds by relief labor?" asked the reeve. The reeve noted one bright aspect in the present relief conditions and that was that the list had decreased by about 100 during the year.

Relief had been administered by a committee and the reeve praised the efforts of its members for fine work.

"The Saanich council has done a good job and done it well and you have had a body of honest and straightforward men to administer your affairs," he continued.

EDWARD WILKINSON

"There are two or three reasons why I am offering myself for reeve," said Mr. Wilkinson. "I have been in Saanich for fifteen years. I am a past president of the Saanich Athletic Association and am president of the Ward Seven Ratepayers' Association. In addition to taking a keen interest in municipal affairs through parent-teacher associations."

He sketched his business life which, he felt, qualified him for the chief executive post of the municipality.

He questioned the reeve's assertions that economy had resulted in reducing the bank overdraft by $18,000. Last year there was about $60,000 appropriated for public works. Nearly $80,000 of this, he said, was spent on road work and yet there was not a bit of constructive work shown. He felt there were many places where constructive work might have been done and that Saanich had missed a glorious chance in the last two years to do some good work when it was receiving $2 for $1 from the government.

The roads and sidewalks were disgraceful, he said, "and yet money has been spent paying men for cutting daisies when it might have been spent in making roads and sidewalks safe for life and limb. For this reason I say we have had a policy of destruction instead of construction."

CHECK EXPENDITURES

An administration was needed which would check these expenditures carefully and not allow money to be wasted.

Mr. Wilkinson denied statements made by the reeve that he had been the leader of a delegation of unemployed which sought restoration of two extra days for relief workers, at a council meeting. When the outer ward councillors voted against this increase they had voted against further squan-dering of funds, he claimed.

If elected, he proposed to go after the provincial government to take over that portion of marine drive in Saanich and maintain it from motor vehicle revenue, feeling that such a request was reasonable since the government had taken away much in grants. He also suggested the old interurban line as an attractive motor drive, the improving of which would provide work in the municipality.

JOHN REID

John Reid realized the 1934 council would only have a certain amount of money to spend and he felt that in manner of spending this money constituted the various candidates' policies.

He referred to departmental costs in the municipality, which he claimed were excessive in some places. With careful management he foresaw where many of these costs could be reduced and a greater relief allowance be made.
He suggested an auditor to replace the engineer, one foreman; one straw boss in each ward working for $75 a month, and truck drivers paid $75 a month. He would make the fine hall mechanic work at nights. At present he worked all day when the trucks were out and consequently had nothing to do. Reduction of the building inspector's salary to $100 a month and the filling out of time sheets by all municipal employees were also included.

These economies, he felt, would be in the interests of the people of Saanich, and the amount saved could be spent on relief and road work.

JOHN DEPRESSION DOCTOR

The post of medical health officer, he thought, should be advertised and public applications accepted. By this means he thought Saanich might get a "depression doctor" and not one who got M.D. salary, a car allowance and all the gas he could use. Economy could also be practiced in the police department and in the water administration, he said. All municipal cars should carry running sheets in his opinion, by which all mileage could be checked, and "joy-riding" could be stopped.

COUNCILLOR COTTON

The governing of Saanich is not the simple matter that it appears to be.
The 1933 council had many problems, numerous criticisms and several disagreements, said Councillor Cotton.

He recalled reductions in assessments at the beginning of the year and the fact that improvement and land taxes were increased. All this had been necessary to keep expenditures in line with revenue and balance the budget.

The government had decided that the British Columbia municipalities should share more of the social service grants, and that there should be reductions in motor license fees. These two factors combined to bring about an increased levy. Another big point had been the steady decrease of percentage of collections from $60.2 per cent in 1928 to $24.8 per cent in 1932 and 78.23 per cent to the end of October in 1933. There had also been a bank overdraft from 1930 of $38,000, which had to be wiped off in part.

"If services were to be maintained, it was necessary to increase the tax levy," he said.

When a normal mill rate was reached, the fact that land values had been reduced would be beneficial, he said.

There had been $3,640 spent in Ward
Five during the year, chiefly on road work.

REVIEWS FINANCES

He gave a brief financial report, enumerating the various increased costs and the reductions in revenue.

ADAM EDWARDS

Mr. Edwards planned to tell the people of what had not been done in Ward Five that should have been done, and that was road improvement.

He had been told the oil which Saanich got was no use whatever and thought that a better type should be used, which would bind the gravel and ensure secure roads.

"The council spent money rolling roads, well, I'd like to see where they rolled," said Mr. Edwards.

Employment relief, he thought, should be undertaken by the government, and the municipality should be allowed more opportunity to reduce taxes. The unemployed, he said, could be well put to work on installation of sewers in Ward Two and Seven, where one saw many scarier ferrets to day because of unsatisfactory sanitation.

Higher taxes were necessary in the inner wards, he stated, or rural districts should succeed from the remainder of the municipality.

The people of the urban districts knew that a reeve should be elected from their wards, he continued, because of a rural resident got in they knew their taxes would go up.

"I am dissatisfied with our roads and that's what I'm running for, if you want to know," he reiterated.

NEED A CHANGE

"The time has come when Saanich has got to have a change. They're going to have an epidemic in those inner wards one of these days that we're going to have to pay for."

He wanted to get an engineering department which was going to a great value for money spent. This would be possible if there were an efficient man in charge.

If something were not done in Saanich soon, a commission would have to take over the municipality, he said.
He strongly opposed further borrowings by the municipality.

JOHN OLIVER

Mr. Oliver had been asked by a number of friends to run for ward representative. He had little to say other than that he would do his best if elected. He cut his address to half a minute to allow the reeve plenty of time to speak.

COUNCILLOR HAGAN

Councillor L. C. Hagan expressed his thanks to the electors for returning him. He felt it was an approval of his record in office and of the work of the council during 1933. He sketched the operations of the municipality during the year, dealing with finances and taxation matters.

F. G. ALDOUS

Mr. Aldous hoped to have better luck this year in attempting to seek a position on the school board. He had no axe to grind and had no relations whom he would want to put in as teachers.

He had come in touch with school affairs through the Mount Douglas P.T.A., an organization to which he paid a tribute for its fine community work.

He felt he would be useful on the board in his capacity as a civil engineer and land surveyor.

tion of teachers, regarding teaching ability as being predominant over personality.

TRIBUTE TO COUNCIL

At Ward Five, ex-Councillor H. C.
Oldfield, followed the speakers with a short address. "I all realize that the councils of Saanich have had difficulty times during the last few years and I feel that we have had a governing body of competent men. This good and sound I feel is an indication of this."

Councillor Cotton, Mr. Oldfield continued, had explained the situation which had confronted the municipality at the beginning of last year and it was quite apparent that the council had no other alternative but to raise taxes. "I think from these reports of the councillors and reeve we can see that the council has had its feet on the ground and it is evident that it has already made plans to balance the 1934 budget," Mr. Oldfield concluded.

Mr. Tanner, the Ward Six chairman, construed the small attendance as an indication that the ratepayers of the ward were satisfied with the administration of the municipality during the last year. He paid glowing tribute to the reeve and councillors for their excellent work in lowering the bank overdraft during such difficult times and hoped the municipality would be well advised to return all seeking re-election.

REMAINS OF HUMAN FOUND

Searchers Locate Bones of What Might Be Wrecked
Fishermen on West Coast

The pelvis and thigh bone of a medium-sized man, believed to have been one of the fishermen lost on the West Coast during severe storms last month, were found on the rocks near Clo-see Monday, according to Pre-vinctial Police radio advice. "The remains were discovered by William Logan, a shore patrolman, who notified Captain Redford of the C.G.S.
Glenchey and Corporal Alex. Dunbar of the F.M.L. 7."

The remains were buried by police officers on instructions from the coroner. A black leather coat, several shirts and a blue and white vest were also discovered in the vicinity. While the coat and shirts were not identified as belonging to the missing man, Captain Anderson of the fishing boat Dove which accompanied the others on the fateful trip stated he believed the vest to be the property of Helge Johansen, who was aboard the wrecked ship Bella, with Ole Johansen.

The forty-fifth annual winter show of the Victoria Poultry Association opened at the Willows yesterday. The two outstanding first prize winners in the show are J. F. Hanna and J. P.
Sariat. Owing to the fact that the 1933 council had many problems,

Do You Know?
 How the term "Badger game" meaning to extort money through blackmail, originated?
 Your lunch hour should be a rest period. A pleasant surprise awaits you at Stevenson's. First, a cordial reception by courteous attendants; next, a comfortable private booth; and last but by no means least, a light refreshing and appetizing meal, cooked and served as only Stevenson's know how. Bring a friend. You'll be delighted.
 Answer: A private secretary, known as Mr. Badger, a character in a famous play entitled "The Poor of New York," produced in 1867, was convicted of blackmail by his employer, Mr. Bloodgood. Stevenson's, Chocolate Shops and Dining-rooms

POUR BOARD HAS SURPLUS

The Esquimalt Police Commission finished 1933 with a $200 surplus from its original appropriation, according to the financial statement, recently completed.

The board completed the year with a total expenditure of approximately $5,863 and the amount budgeted for at the beginning of the year was $6,063. The expenditures included $3,992 for salaries and $1,877 for office and staff maintenance. Every effort was made to keep costs at a minimum during the year.

In Chief of Police H. W. V. Pecknold's annual report it is shown that the department collected $1,822 in fines and tax collections. Complaints received and attended totaled 1,470 and there were forty-seven motor accident reports.

An increase in the number of fire calls noted, but out of a total value of damaged property of $32,000 there was an approximate loss of only $1,960, a feature of the report which was commended by the commissioners.

NEWS IN BRIEF
 The regular monthly meeting of the Royal Canadian Mounted Association will be held at the Y.M.C.A. to-night at 7:30 o'clock. An important business will be discussed and all members are asked to have delegates present.

Sanich Conservative Association met yesterday evening, with Mrs. F. P. Osborne, the president, in the chair. Prior to the opening of business, a standing vote of sympathy was passed to the family of the late Miss May P. Tolmie. Arrangements were made to hold a dance in the near future, the date to be announced later.

Entries for the second half of the Victoria Table Tennis League will close to-night at 8 o'clock. Teams desiring to enter, and who have not done so, can file their entries by telephoning Secretary L. Cor. 7763. No entries will be accepted after this evening as the teams will open play on January 15.

The following were inadvertently omitted from the list of candidates for the municipal elections on Monday. Albert Edward Hull, farmer, Granville Road, proposed by S. Holloway, seconded by P. Simpson, who is seeking re-election as school trustee in Saanich; and Thomas Henry Hodgson, 178 Esquimalt Road, manager, proposed by William B. George, seconded by Mrs. Marjorie Hill, who is contesting the Esquimalt Council.

Local Rotarians attending the dinner given at the Empress Hotel last night in honor of Dr. Fong F. Sec, Rotary International director, en route from Shanghai to Chicago, included James H. Beatty, Percy Scumrah, Ald. James Adam, Ald. Alex. Peden, Ald. Walter Lunney and Tommy Johnson, with Charles French, president, in the chair. Also present was G. M. Billings, formerly of Shanghai and a friend of Dr. Sec.

Charles H. French, president of the Rotary Club will address the members of the Real Estate Board on "Historical Associations and Their Relation to Real Estate Salesmanship" at a luncheon meeting of the board to be held in Spencer's dining-room to-morrow afternoon at 12:30 o'clock. Municipal assessments will also be discussed and the board will consider a resolution from the executive regarding the sale of wines and beer in hotels and restaurants.

The annual general meeting of the United Services Institution of Vancouver Island will be held to-morrow night in Spencer's dining-room. Officers and other executives will be elected for the coming year. Major-General E. C. Ashton, C.M.G., V.D., officer commanding Military District No. 11, and Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown, C.M.G., D.S.O. (retired), will address the gathering. Supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock and the general meeting will begin at 8 o'clock.

Thomas Wilson was fined $50, or in default, one month's imprisonment when he was convicted of a charge of supplying liquor in violation of the court this morning. W. C. Moreby, K.C., entered a plea of not guilty for the accused and contended that the Indian woman alleged to have been supplied liquor herself while the accused was out of the room. Police evidence, however, stated the accused was in the room when the Indian was drinking. In connection with the same case, Annie Tom, an Indian woman, was fined $10 or five days, for being intoxicated.

A meeting of special interest will be held to-morrow at 8:30 p.m. in the Memorial Hall under the auspices of the Men's Guild of Christ Church Cathedral, when the need for providing classes and training facilities for young people and others who are out of work will be discussed. H. Cristof, superintendent, Unemployed Service of Canada, D.S.O. (retired), will address the meeting. Supper will be served at 8 o'clock.

FUNERAL TO-MORROW
 Last rites for Mrs. Anne Green will be held to-morrow afternoon at McCall Bros. Funeral Home, at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Miss D. E. Hastings Called to Rest
 After a lengthy illness, Miss Dorothy Elsie Hastings passed away yesterday evening at 10:15, at her residence, 1510 Belcher Street.

She is survived by two sisters and four brothers
 Miss Hastings was born in British Columbia. Her father, Charles Hastings, a resident of the Straits Settlements, a niece, of Victoria, and three nieces and a nephew at Du an, and a nephew in the Straits Settlements, also survive.

Bringing Better Understanding in China and Japan, Says Dr. Fong F. Sec of Shanghai
 "Both in China and Japan, Rotarians are working together to bring about a better understanding," said Dr. Fong F. Sec, director of Rotary International, when interviewed following his arrival here yesterday by the President Jefferson from Shanghai.

He spoke enthusiastically of the progress that Rotary is making in China and Japan, and visualized in the work a strong lever operating in the interests of peace.
 The International director was given a hearty welcome by brother Rotarians of Victoria. He was greeted at the Ritz Hotel by James H. Beatty, Percy Scumrah, Ald. Walter Lunney and Ald. Alex. Peden.

There are certain groups in China looking towards a dictatorship and it would not surprise the doctor if Chang Kai-shek attempted to establish one.
 But democratic China, in his opinion, would never submit to an autocratic dictatorship.

On the subject of Japan and Russia, the doctor admitted that the situation was tense.
 Reverting to the work of Rotary in China, Dr. Fong Sec explained that up to the present time his activities had been confined largely to the treaty ports, but it was not the intention to proceed with the organization of clubs in the interior. There are twelve Rotary clubs in China with a membership of between 300 and 400, he explained. No less than eighteen nationalities were represented in the Shanghai club, over which he presides. In Japan, there are fifteen clubs, with a total representation of between 700 and 800 members.

He said there were some very fine leaders in the Japanese clubs who were earnestly working to establish better relations between the two countries.
 Dr. Fong Sec is one of the proprietors of the Commercial Press in Shanghai, which building was completely destroyed by the Japanese when they invaded the Chinese city.

ENTERTAINED HERE
 At the dinner held last night in his honor, the doctor related an interesting incident which occurred when the Japanese occupied Shanghai. A Rotary committee of two Chinese, two Japanese and one Britisher was appointed to interview the high commands of the Japanese and Chinese forces to see what could be done in the way of mediation. The delegation was given considerable hearing, but unfortunately failed to accomplish its object.

The doctor spoke appreciatively of the kind reception accorded him by Japanese Rotarians when he was passing through Japan on his way here.
 Dr. Fong Sec is bound to Chicago to attend a triennial conference of directors of Rotary International, which will convene January 15. Later he will make a trip to New Zealand and Australia for a series of rotary district conferences and he expects to be back in China by April 13. He will then go on to Japan for a series of district conferences and will be back on this continent in June to attend the Rotary International conference in Detroit, opening June 25.

Trustee Jeune, chairman of the board's finance committee, dealt exclusively with finances.
 At the beginning of the year the board had been called upon to make reductions of expenditures and with care and economy had been able to complete the year with a budget reduced by $31,367.70 over the previous year. He opposed having high school fees charged on ages and felt they should be based upon the number of years a student had spent at school. His opinion, however, was that the fee should be submitted to the people for approval.

Trustee Hall stated he had voted in favor of fees.
 The board had felt some charge was necessary because of reductions in government grants. He stated. He pointed out that the government formerly contributed 62 per cent of teachers' salaries, but was only providing 10 per cent at present. He had been forced to find additional revenue to balance this loss, he said.

Trustees Duncan and Tones spoke briefly, confining their time chiefly to answering questions from the floor.
 The program committee: George MacDonald, the stage committee, H. MacDonald, Thomas Wilkinson, secretary; A. S. Woodland, W. H. Davis, D. J. Ward, P. Campbell, J. Fairbairn, W. Woodley, H. Ward, D. Fish, H. Gallop, George MacDonald, and the Misses B. Shadlow, E. Baxter, H. Cross, I. MacDonald, and a piece orchestra provided the music for the dance, which concluded at 1 a.m.

GUESTS OF HONOR
 The guests of honor were the three members of the Canadian committee: R. J. Gouley, C. S. Riley and H. B. Lyle, all of Winnipeg. A resident of the Hudson's Bay Company in Canada, P. A. Chester, of Winnipeg; A. H. Doe, superintendent of store maintenance, and F. F. Martin, comptroller, also of Winnipeg, and the following from the city: J. C. Putt, Vancouver, and A. J. Watson, Victoria.

Although Albert Heald, reeve of Esquimalt for the last two years, has decided to vacate the chair of the chief magistrate, he has not finished his career in municipal politics.
 To-day he announced he would seek a one-year term on the council and would stand for election to that post left open by the resignation of R. A. Anderson, former councillor who is running for reeve. Nomination papers of those seeking election to the one-year term were filed to-day.

This evening, at the Municipal Hall, Reeve Heald and his council of last year will give an account of their stewardship to the ratepayers at a meeting which is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.
 Providing there is sufficient time left after the members of the 1933 body have given their reports, candidates for election next Saturday may be accorded a chance to speak.

To-morrow evening, at 8 o'clock, Alexander Lockie, candidate for reeve and school board, will sponsor a meeting in the school board club, at which all candidates will be invited to speak.
 Reeve Heald stated to-day he was considering sponsoring another meeting later in the week.

Four candidates had come forward for the single one-year term on council vacancy when the returning officer closed his books on nominations.
 They are, with their proposers and sponsors: HEALD, ALBERT, 1307 Lyall Street, proposed by W. A. Slaw, seconded by Philip S. Goring; STEWART, BOB, 618 Nelson Street, proposed by Robert F. Matheson, seconded by James Elrick; BRIDGEN, THOMAS ALGERNON

ARTHUR, 639 Constance Avenue, proposed by Charles Walcott, seconded by John W. McGrath; GIBSON, JOHN MURPHY, 635 Constance Avenue, proposed by Alexander Craig, seconded by Edwin James Bushnell.

MAKES ISLAND SPEAKING TOUR

Rev. T. H. Lonsdale Brought Here By Regional Council of Canadian Clubs

Rev. T. H. Lonsdale, United Church minister of Banff, Alta., whose addresses on "Romances of the Rockies" have commanded widespread attention, arrived in the city yesterday and is registered at the Empress Hotel.

He is making an island tour under the auspices of the regional council of Canadian Clubs and will deliver his address, "Romance of the Rockies," to-morrow afternoon at Nanaimo. To-morrow evening he will speak at Qualicum Beach, and on Friday evening he will be at Courtenay, terminating his island tour on Saturday evening at Alberni.

On Monday night he will sail from Vancouver for Prince Rupert, where he will speak next Wednesday.

While here to-day Mr. Lonsdale conferred with W. T. Strath, president of the Victoria Canadian Club and member of the regional council.

No money would be available for airport facilities, Mayor David Leeming told members of his council at their meeting on Monday evening.

Japanese Make Wonderful Advance in All Lines of Sport

Have Wonderful Facilities for Handling Olympic Games

Lionel Conacher Has Amazed Sports Fans With His Ability

THE JAPANESE are serious about their sports and aiming toward the day when they'll be able to bid for world supremacy in practically every line of amateur athletic endeavor. There is no form of game or competition that has not already been imported from foreign lands, and they work at all of them so diligently that it is not surprising that in twenty-five years they have advanced from nowhere to a position where they feel themselves entitled to play host to the twelfth Olympic Games in 1940. If the bid is successful Tokyo will be able to offer facilities equal to those at the 1932 Olympiad held in Los Angeles. The city of Tokyo, third largest in the world, boasts an athletic layout probably unequalled anywhere.

In one park, named the Outer Garden of the Meiji Shrine, there are four separate establishments built to meet the requirements of various games. One is a modern stadium for rugby, soccer and track and field events. It has a seating capacity of 60,000. One is a swimming pool banked by seats accommodating 15,000. Another is a huge baseball stadium seating 65,000. The fourth is a bowl-like affair in the center of which basketball, and similar games, can be played in the open air. In the stadium devoted to track events there is a 700-foot straightaway paralleling the grandstand. The track measures 400 metres. The ten-lane pool in the swim stadium is fifty metres in length and half that in width. Adjacent to it is a separate pool for the diving events. The fan-shaped baseball field exceeds in playing area most of the big league parks in the United States.

When Japan first began to look around for sports it could adopt it selected baseball. For more than twenty-five years now it has been the empire's national game. It is the big sport in all the universities. To be a member of a college line is the ultimate in athletic achievement. A college baseball game on this continent attracts enough people to make a crowd, but that isn't the case in Japan. When the colleges like Imperial, Keio, Waseda, Meiji, Hosei, and Rikkyo, all in Tokyo, meet on the diamond the games rival a world series in interest. As many as can be accommodated crowd the stadiums, in some cases as high as 55,000.

Because baseball came first, all the colleges boast stadiums that concede nothing to the majority of the athletic establishments in schools on this continent. In Tokyo alone the six large college stadiums for baseball, soccer and track and field. Schools in the other cities are similarly equipped. An indication of the demand for such athletic centres by other college teams is that newspapers and electronic companies own big fields in which baseball, track events, mass athletics and soccer are staged before as many as 50,000 spectators. Until 1914 the Japanese didn't know much about golf, except that it was some sort of game requiring particular skill. In that year the empire's first course was built. Today there are approximately fifty links and most are of championship length.

Lionel Conacher is an amazing athlete. At a time when many athletes are declining in capacity, or are failing to attract public attention, he moves along holding the spotlight with as much zest as ever. Playing with his fourth professional hockey club, he still intrigues attention. Conacher stepped out last autumn to amaze most experts as well as fans by his remarkable work on the gridiron. He introduced professional football to Canada. This year he hopes to help organize a league which will establish the sport permanently. Conacher is now a member of the Ontario Black Hawks in the National Hockey League. He has been outstanding in every sport he has taken part in. His greatest football achievements were with the Toronto Argonauts. He is also a good wrestler and experts state he has a bright future in that sport any time he wishes to take it up as a career. His performance last fall on the Canadian football field were little short of marvelous. Conacher, who must be around thirty-four years of age, had not played football for ten years. Yet he went out with his club to amaze the fans by the versatility of his game. He kicked sixty yards consistently, he ran that distance often and plunged with Orange-like persistency.

WOMEN PLAY FOR U.S. CUE TITLE

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Mrs. Gertrude Baker McCreary, New York, took the lead in defence of her national women's amateur pocket billiards title yesterday evening by winning her second straight match.

Mrs. McCreary defeated Mrs. Urena Hummel, also of New York, 35 to 15, in her afternoon match, and overcame Georgia Veach, Chicago, 35 to 33 yesterday evening. Miss Veach defeated Mrs. Hummel, 35 to 21 in the other afternoon engagement.

BAYS TO WORK OUT

Senior B and intermediate rugby players of the James Bay Athletic Association are requested to turn out on a practice at the Athletic Park this morning at 7 o'clock.

Three Changes In Team Announced By Selectors To-day

Roddy McInnes and Jack Dunn Return to Squad; Wally Stipe Given Call

Workout Called To-morrow Night

Two former members of Victoria's Crimson Tide have been recalled, and one new man has been added to replace Harry Robson, who is out of the game with a cracked rib, it was revealed with the official announcement of the local fifteen to oppose Varsity in the McKee Cup rugby game at the Athletic Park on Saturday afternoon.

Roddy McInnes, of the Fifth Brigade, after watching Bill Latta, J.B.A.A., and Ted Colgate of the Scottish, fill his position during the last few games, will be back in harness as fullback. Jack Dunn of the Bays returns to the squad to take Brian Hunning's place as wing three-quarter, and Wally Stipe, smart scrum half for Charlie Morton's league-leading Fifth Brigade, gets his first chance in Big Three play. Stipe, who starred in Canadian rugby circles here, was the only local man picked on the All-British Columbia Canadian code team.

With the exception of a move which returns Bobby Tye to the post of stand-off half, those were the only changes made by the selection committee today.

OFFICIAL TEAM
The complete team follows:
Fullback—Roddy McInnes, Fifth Brigade.

Three-quarters—Jack Dunn, J.B.A.A.; Charlie Morton, Navy; Pete Turgoose, J.B.A.A., and Joe Addison, J.B.A.A.; Stand-off half—Bob Tye, Canadian Scottish.

Scrum half—Wally Stipe, Fifth Brigade.

Forwards—Dud King, Wanderers; Harry Pear, J.B.A.A.; Bob Engle, J.B.A.A.; Dan Rogers, J.B.A.A.; Dan Dorewell, Fifth Brigade; Chas. Usher, J.B.A.A.; Ed de Biquiere, Fifth Brigade, and Bill Robbins, J.B.A.A.

Reserves—Fullback, "Polly" Parrott, J.B.A.A.; three-quarters, Paul Rowe, Fifth Brigade; Buzz Brown, J.B.A.A.; Frank Gribble, Fifth Brigade; forwards, Flen Stewart, Fifth Brigade, and Fred Beckett, Canadian Scottish.

H. A. Jimmy, Tacoma, chairman of the selection committee, will be head coach with Bob Travis as his assistant.

PRACTICE TO-MORROW
Members of the team and reserves will work out at Oak Bay Park to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock as they start their first training for the repulse of the blue-and-gold squad from Varsity. All players must turn out for the practice.

Clarence McDonald, leader of the Navy squad and one of the soundest players the city has boasted for some seasons, will be captain of the fifteen for Saturday's game, while Vic Rogers, forward and kicking ace for the Bays, will be vice-captain.

The official selection gives five berths to the city league leaders, the Fifth Brigade, seven to the second-standing J.B.A.A. and one each to the Scottish, the Wanderers and the Navy.

Should any of the squad be unable to turn out for the game, the city is well provided with exceptionally strong second choices. "Polly" Parrott will be given the call for fullback, if McInnes is not available, while young Paul Rowe, one of the scores of players developed by the University of Victoria School, is the next choice for the position of stand-off half. Flen Stewart and Freddy Beckett could easily fit into the scrum without any particular play of power to the pack if any of the forwards are unable to see duty.

Varsity Busy
While Victoria was winding up its preparations with final workouts, Varsity was in a quandary as to who should play in the pack to-day. The students' backfield will probably be much the same as that which opposed the Californians in the southern's first game in the province, but reports from the Point Grey institution indicate there are about twenty forwards working for positions in the scrum.

Thoroughly ashamed of their showing against the Californians last month, the Varsity squad will be out to re-establish itself in the eyes of followers of the game here and can be expected to provide its usual smart backfield attack against the locals.

THIS HOLE WAS COSTLY
Los Angeles, Jan. 10.—The par three seventh hole at the Los Angeles Country Club, where Olin Dutra, former United States professional golf association champion, took nine strokes on the final round of the Los Angeles Open, was down in history as one of the most expensive to any golfer.

Every shot the smiling Spaniard from Santa Monica took over par cost him $100.84, and made the difference in his prize money of $600.65. He collected $220.91 for seventh place instead of the second place he might have had.

JACKIE HOOD STILL AFTER "OUR JIMMY"

English Welterweight Is Anxious to Get Championship Battle With McLarnin

New York, Jan. 10.—A world championship prize fight between an Englishman and an Irishman. The haze of discord hanging as is does these days over the Irish Sea, such a fistie feat would seem to be natural.

The idea was born of the agile brain of Charles J. Harvey, custodian of the United States interests of Jackie Hood, the Englishman who wears the European welter crown. He would like Jimmy McLarnin, the Vancouver Irishman—he was born while his parents visited the old sod—to gamble his world title against Jackie's durable fists.

The fight might have been arranged long ago excepting that Jimmy's manly dabble with the poke of gold that Harvey dangled.

But Harvey being a stickler himself, the meeting is far from washed up. He appeared before the New York Boxing Commission and this was his song of woe:

"More than a year I have been seeking to induce McLarnin to box Hood. When I was on the Coast recently I discussed the matter with Pop Foster, McLarnin's manager, who immediately set a prohibitive price on McLarnin's services."

The commission filed the challenge.

BASEBALL TO START EARLY

Coast League Teams Open Play in March; New Set-up For Seattle Club

Oakland, Calif., Jan. 10.—Selection of Catalina Island for the 1935 meeting of the Pacific Coast Baseball League was announced yesterday by President Hyland Bagley. The annual session will be held during the first week of January.

The invitation to hold the meeting in the south was extended by Dave Fleming, president of the Los Angeles club, and was unanimously accepted by directors who attended the 1934 session here.

The directors also decided to open the 1934 season the last week in March, one week earlier than heretofore. The schedule, therefore, will be completed in time not to conflict with the opening of the football season late in September.

Approval of a new set-up for the Seattle club, by which controlling interest will be transferred to a group headed by Henry Broderick and Judge Charles Moriarty, was approved by the delegates.

Seattle, Jan. 10.—Henry Broderick, who with Judge Charles Moriarty was invited to act as "friendly receivers" of the Seattle club and franchise of the Pacific Coast League, declared yesterday evening that the transfer had not been effected, and the situation was "still at a standstill."

"The negotiations are still under way," he said.

When an agreement is reached between the three groups in the negotiations, the stockholders, the creditors and the Pacific Coast League," he added, "we will be ready to act."

In explanation of the present status of the negotiations, Broderick, a prominent business man here, said that he and Judge Moriarty had been invited by certain stockholders and the league directors to act as "friendly receivers."

"There is no transaction in the sense of a buyer and seller under way," he said. "We are acting on invitation in an attempt to pull the ball club here out of a hole."

THISTLE PRACTICE
A workout of the Spanish Thistles football team will be held to-morrow evening at the Athletic Park at 8 o'clock. All players are asked to turn out.

CANADA INVITED
Toronto, Jan. 10.—Canada to-day had been officially invited to participate in the next Olympic Games at Berlin. The invitation was received by James G. Merrick, Toronto, member of the International Olympic committee, for presentation to the Canadian Olympic committee.

Arguments Are Many

At Wrestling Probe

Grapplers Do Much Talking But Tell Little Before New York Commission

New York, Jan. 10.—A most embarrassing situation developed yesterday in the offices of the New York State Athletic Commission. There were charges that wrestling has been conducted here on the level, and as many vehement denials.

But at the close of hearings, that brought out all the moguls of the mat game in full cry to take sides in the "expose," the commission adjourned for a week and issued the following communique through Bert Stand, secretary:

"We have heard all the testimony. We have sent it out to be translated into English. When that is done we will consider it. We will then announce our decision. The decision will be that there will be no decision. Meeting adjourned."

It was rumored on the very best authority, however, that the wrestlers and promoters had done their best to convince the commission that wrestling matches here are just what the commission has labeled them for years, "exhibitions"; that two of the members, David Weir and Bill Brown, were convinced, but that Chairman John J. Fiebel was holding out for honest wrestling.

Brown takes the attitude if the public is satisfied who is the commission to spoil the people's harmless fun. As briefly as possible the situation is as follows:

One Jack Pfeffer charged in an expose published here recently that a match between Richard Shikat and Strangler Ed Lewis, which opened the Madison Square Garden bowl on Long Island in 1932, was not on the level. The statement was received with great calm by the general public.

He said when Jim London, then recognized here for the title and was forced out of New York by the commission, a new order was brought about in wrestling.

Shikat was recognized as champion because of London's actions. And a combination made up of Pfeffer, Jack Curley, Toots Mondt, Dury Miller, Shikat and Lewis was formed, he said. Then, he charged, Mondt, Miller and Shikat's manager, received $16,000 from the rest for his grapple to transfer the title to Lewis. Which, he said, was done in the back in May.

As the Pfeffer story goes, London departed under the direction of Tom Packs of St. Louis, but evil times came upon the six-way partnership. London has returned to the fold. Jim Brown-Ging has supplanted Lewis as champion. All is peace among the warring factions, except that Pfeffer has been blotted out into the cold. All this he wrote and also swore under path before the commission.

Packs denied everything under oath on Monday. Yesterday Curley, London, Mondt, Shikat, Miller and Ed White, Chicago, another promoter, followed with their denials.

"A more serious side of the investigation was developed," Stand explained after the meeting. "A fellow whose name I did not catch has now appeared, promising to expose Pfeffer. He says Pfeffer stole his suitcase. The suitcase may have contained documents, even state secrets. There seems to be no limit to the ramifications of this case."

Jack Adams Having Trouble With Eyes

Detroit, Jan. 10.—Jack Adams, manager of Detroit Red Wings, is threatened with the loss of his eyesight and will stop off at Kingston to consult a specialist as the Red Wings come home from Montreal following their game with Maroons to-morrow. It was announced yesterday.

Adams got a burning substance in his eyes at his home in Naperville, several years ago, and in recent weeks has suffered severe pains in his head. James Morris Jr. will be in charge of the Wings while Adams is away.

Y.M.C.A. Wrestlers to Oppose North Saanich Club Boys This Evening

For the entertainment of the Ex-Foreign Service Men's Club, wrestlers of the Y.M.C.A. will clash with those of the North Saanich Service Club in a card which is scheduled to start at 9 o'clock at the Crystal Garden this evening.

In the opening bout Jim Yates of the Y.M.C.A. will oppose Roy Tutt, both weighing in at 140 pounds, and will be followed by Don Tyson of the association, who will take the mat against "Red" Smithurst, in a 125-pound contest. In the last event George Hendry of the Y.M.C.A. will meet Vic Heel. The boys will tip the beam at 150 pounds.

A strong man act and tumbling exhibition will round out the programme. Dr. W. Newton will be in charge of the show.

EQUIPOISE TO RETURN

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 10.—Equipoise, the little giant of the turf, is growing a new hoof in preparation for another assault on the money-winning record of $375,744 held by Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau.

The C. V. Whitney handicap champion, winner of $322,978, will return to the racing with this spring and a summer, providing training does not again injure his foot.

Equipoise raced with practically a lame leg for the last two seasons.

Canadiens, Rangers And Americans Win Clashes In N.H.L.

Aurel Joliat Stars For First Named in 3 to 2 Victory Over Maroons

Rangers Take Detroit Wings

Little Aurel Joliat, whose fighting heart and deft ability to avoid punishment have carried him through eleven years of the most strenuous hockey played, seemed bound to-day to make his twelfth season in the National Hockey League one of the greatest of them all.

The crafty left-winger, oldest in that position in the big time, goes right on amazing those who started counting him out years ago. Recently he scored a goal or an assist in eight straight games. Yesterday evening he drove two pucks past Dave Kerr and played his usual canny defensive game to aid Montreal Canadiens in a 3 to 2 win over Maroons.

The Ottawa Swifts, who broke into pro hockey with Saskatoon, has fought the ravages of time and borne up under the punishing grind of hockey so well, only one of the younger generation of puckchasers leads him in scoring points to-day. With nineteen, Joliat is tied for second place in the "best" with Earl Ege, Ottawa, five points behind Charlie Conacher, Toronto Leafs.

If he keeps on as he has there is no good reason to suppose he won't equal his top-scoring mark of forty, made in 1925. He certainly should top his eleven year average of twenty-seven.

CANADIENS HOLD EDGE
Joliat's two goals, scored in a little more than two minutes of the second period, and Armand Mondou's tying counter in the first session gave the Habitués the edge in their city series with Eddie Conner's team. Canadiens have now won two games, tied one and lost one.

The Frenchmen's left wing shared starting honors with blonde young Russell Blinco, recently promoted from Windsor Bull Dogs, who scored both Maroon goals. Canadiens' scoring punch made its appearance when Newey Lachy, sent Jack Kerr, captain of Vancouver, out to centre to play with Joliat and Johnny Gagnon. Riley got assists on both Joliat goals.

The win lengthened the Habitués' lead over Maroons to four points, but left them still ten behind Toronto. Victories for both New York teams improved their positions. Rangers beat Detroit Red Wings 2 to 1, evening their season series at two wins each, and moved up into second place in the United States division with Red Wings. Americans' 3 to 1 decision over Boston left them only two points behind Ottawa Senators with a game in hand.

Young Red Conn had a lot to do with the Americans' win. He scored the first goal of the game in the second period and then passed to Eddie Burke for the second in the third. One Peggy O'Neill, the Saskatoon youngster, got Bruins' only tally, with less than two minutes of playing time left.

Brilliant passing attacks gave Rangers both goals against Detroit. Just as Teddy Graham returned from a penalty in the first period, a five-forward attack, Les Patrick had been trying, clicked. Murray Murdoch scoring. Then Bill Cook snared another goal in the second period with Earl Selbert and Frank Boucher in on the play.

Johnny Sorrell slammed the puck through Selbert's legs for Red Wings' goal in the third frame that gave the Yorkers plenty of thrills. Wings fought furiously for goals but the Ranger defence turned them back.

Rangers—Altknecht, Selbert, Johnson, Boucher, W. Cook, F. Cook, Substutis, Ripley, Dillon, Murdoch, Keeling, Osmundson, Heller, Brennan, Dutkowski.

Arthur Kingscott's Dismissal Sensation Of English Football

One of the Most Drastic Actions in the History of Soccer Administration

Was on Council For Forty Years

London, Jan. 9.—One of the most sensational happenings in the history of soccer administration occurred recently when the Council of the Football Association made the following official announcement:

"That in the best interests of the Football Association A. Kingscott resign his office as hon. treasurer of the association; failing which his name be and is hereby removed from all committees and sub-committees of which he is now a member, and that he be suspended from his office as hon. treasurer of the association."

It will be recalled that some time ago the Football Association received a communication from the Association of Football Referees and Linesmen complaining of a statement made by an officer of the association, that they alleged reflected upon the honor of the referees who had officiated in final ties of the challenge cup competition. The drastic action by the Football Association against a man who had been a member of the council for nearly forty years, and the totally unexpected suddenness of the decision, has caused more surprise than any other administrative move for longer than one can care to remember.

Other drastic actions have been made, such as the suspension of the

RISKO SCORES EASY VICTORY

Veteran Cleveland Heavy-weight Hands Maloney Good Beating at Miami

Miami, Fla., Jan. 10.—Johnny Risko, Cleveland boxer, boy, pounded out an easy ten-round decision yesterday evening over Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, in the first major fight of the winter season here.

One of the judges and the referee awarded all ten rounds to Risko, while the other judge gave one to Maloney.

In that round Maloney had started off with mad swings, working on Risko's mid-section, but the boxer boy soon broke this up with a rushing attack, doing heavy damage with short lefts, followed by the long one to the

BILLY WALKER'S APPOINTMENT
Billy Walker, one of the greatest English post-war players, will sever a long connection with Aston Villa when he leaves Villa Park to take over his appointment as manager of the Sheffield Wednesday Club.

Walker should make a good manager, his knowledge of tactics is unequalled, he knows the game through-out, and, what is more, knows players and their form.

He was only a trail looking lad of sixteen when he was signed by the Villa, in fact he was told to go and acquire some robustness and physique and then come back. He did come back and played for the first time on January 19, 1920, against Queens Park Rangers in a cup tie. Walker scored the two goals by which the Villa won.

The Villa carried off the cup that year, so that Walker had the distinction of winning a much-coveted cup medal before he had reached his majority.

Walker gained thirteen caps against Scotland, Ireland and Wales, while he also played against France, Belgium and Austria.

Los Angeles, Jan. 10.—Macdonald Smith, winning the Los Angeles open golf championship for the fourth time Monday, received as his share of the $5,500 prize money, $1,375, tournament officials announced yesterday.

Willie Hunter, Culver City, Calif., and Bill Mehlhorn, Brooklyn, tied for second place, were given $742.50 each. Hunter, who finished his final round yesterday, took par fours on the two holes he left at darkness Monday night, giving him a total score of 288, eight strokes back of the winner.

George Von Elm, Los Angeles, also finished play yesterday morning, taking five on the last two holes, for a 289 total. This put him in a tie with John Revolta, Milwaukee, and Willie Goggin, San Francisco, in fourth place. Their share was $443.33 each.

BILL TILDEN FIRST CHOICE

Veteran Rates 2 to 1 Favorite to Beat Ellsworth Vines at New York To-night

New York, Jan. 10.—Ellsworth Vines will make his professional debut in Madison Square Garden to-night against Bill Tilden with the odds favoring Philadelphia's "old master" at 2 to 1.

Promoters said the advance sale had reached $28,000 with prospects of a sell-out and gross receipts of $38,000. A capacity crowd of 10,000 would set a new record for attendance at any United States tennis match, indoors or out, amateur or professional.

Although Tilden is forty-one years old, expert opinion all leans heavily in his favor. They concede the twenty-two-year-old Vines a big advantage in stamina and admit the blinding speed of his game, but still pick Tilden to win.

"All British fighters are poor," said Kingfish Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, just before his fight with Don McCorkindale of South Africa. Just to prove it he floored the Britisher seven times in their ten-round at Chicago. McCorkindale is shown hitting the floor.

Agua Caliente, Mexico, Jan. 10.—R. H. Martin's Fair Street won the fifth and feature race on the programme at the Agua Caliente Jockey Club track here yesterday afternoon, covering the mile and seventy yards in 1:43.3-5, to win by two and one-half lengths. Golden Knight for the place, and Prevue, the early pacemaker, the show. Mutual tickets on the winner were worth $5.60.

The best price of the meeting was recorded in the sixth race, when Victor scored by a nose, going a mile and one-sixteenth, to pay $219.20.

LESTER PATRICK AND JOE SIMPSON DIFFER ON GREATEST PLAYER

Former Still Contends Fred "Cyclone" Taylor Ranks With-out Peer in History of Hockey; "Bullet Joe" Casts His Vote for Howie Morenz, Montreal Canadiens' Flash; Both Men Offer Sound Arguments

By George Maguire, Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York, Jan. 10.—Fred "Cyclone" Taylor, the Pembroke, Ont., flash who starred with Ottawa Senators nearly twenty-five years ago is, and always has been, the "greatest hockey player" of all time in the estimation of Lester Patrick, manager of New York Rangers.

This topic of the greatest in hockey seems to bob up whenever hockey men gather. The subject came to the fore Monday night when newspapermen spotted Lester and Joe Simpson, coach of the New York Americans, trying to devise some hockey strategy out of Jim Brown's alpine skis as the Missouri wrestling champion flattened his opponent with the thrilling leg hold at Madison Square Garden.

Hockey was injected into the conversation when Joe was asked why he did not send Ronnie Martin, star forward, back to Buffalo, recalling the Amerk farm forward line now with the Bisons.

(Since then, announcement has been made that the decision in question has been settled, with Bisons taking over the contracts of Convey, Keating and Kuhn, formerly held by Americans.)

"What?" exclaimed Joe, bristling all over like an aroused porcupine. "Send Martin back to the minors? Not on your life! He may never be a Howie Morenz but he is certainly fast."

Joe is something of a veteran himself. He broke into the senior amateur ranks back in 1910, and has been prominent ever since either as a player or coach.

Coming a real first-class hockey player and one we can't do without. "Why the reference to Morenz?" Simpson was asked. "Why not Charlie Conacher, Hee Kilrea or Hooley Smith?"

"Simply because Morenz is a stand-out of past or present hockeyists," retorted "Bullet Joe."

Patrick's eyebrows lifted at that and he proceeded to give in detail the fine points of the Cyclone's great ability—his marvelous speed, backward or forward, his great goal-scoring record and his superb temperament.

But Simpson was not to be silenced by the aura thrown about Cyclone Taylor and other puck-juggling heroes of the past.

"They played individually in the old days," said Joe. "That is much more than they do to-day. There were no lines on the ice, and you couldn't forward pass or kick the puck."

ARE TAUGHT MORE
"To-day science and teamwork mean everything. A kid is taught more as a junior than a lot of the old timers ever learned. Twenty years ago, in the seven-man days, the defense never rushed and substitutions were rare. A star player had much more opportunity to strut his stuff."

"I'll concede Taylor was the greatest skater I ever saw, bar none, but I wonder how good he would be today if a fast rival forward just concentrated on covering him. Modern rules might have made a difference also. Compared to the present brand of play, hockey was more or less haphazard in the past."

Joe is something of a veteran himself. He broke into the senior amateur ranks back in 1910, and has been prominent ever since either as a player or coach.

Slight Gains In Wheat Prices On Improved Exports

Winnipeg, Jan. 10.—Taking their lead from Chicago, and bolstered by export sales of 500,000 bushels, wheat prices scored their most vigorous advance of the new year on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Final figures were 1/2 cent over the previous close.

There was very little pressure to sell wheat on the market, and quotations had little difficulty in holding close to the day's top levels. May finished at 66 1/2 and July at 67 1/2 cents.

The better feeling in the southern pit plus strength in stocks appeared to be the major factor in the advance here, though the export sales out of Vancouver were also a large influence.

Export interests and locals were credited with most of the purchasing in the pit, which easily took care of offerings, some of which were credited to Chicago traders. Values were strong throughout.

How to Win Your Daughter-in-Law

Completes Advice to Mothers

Don't Try to Advise Your Son's Wife if You Want to Keep on Good Terms With Her; Treat Her as if She Were Your Own Daughter, and Don't Live With Her if You Can Possibly Help It

TEN RULES FOR BEING A GOOD MOTHER-IN-LAW (Continued From Monday)

THE SIXTH RULE for being a knockout with your daughter-in-law is to REFRAIN FROM GIVING ADVICE OR MAKING SUGGESTIONS. This is the hardest thing that any woman is ever called upon to do. For it requires superhuman self-control for a mother to stand by in silence and see her son's money being wasted and his stomach ruined by the mistakes of a young woman who doesn't know the first principles of housekeeping. She just itches to show her how to do it as a professional does to teach a blundering amateur how to play the game.

But don't yield to the temptation to give advice to the newlywed. Bite off your tongue rather than let it tell how you cook a pot roast or cut down the grocery bill or what color upholstery wears longest. There is nobody else in the world so touchy as a bride, no one else so perfectly assured that she is Solomon in petticoats and no one so resentful of any suggestion that her taste is not impeccable and her judgment without flaw.

And, anyway, it is every woman's inalienable right to run her own home and nobody has any right to interfere with it, and her children in her own way. So keep your fingers out of your daughter-in-law's pie and great shall be your reward in her affection and gratitude.

SEVENTH. TREAT YOUR DAUGHTER-IN-LAW AS YOU DO YOUR OWN DAUGHTER. Don't have one set of standards for your daughter and another for your daughter-in-law. Play fair with her. Don't think that your daughter-in-law should stay at home and scrub and cook and pinch around to places of amusement.

Don't think that one cheap hat a season is good enough for your daughter-in-law, but that your daughter needs half a dozen imported French models. Don't think that your daughter-in-law should be a slave to her husband and that your daughter's husband should wait on her hand and foot. Just remember that your daughter-in-law is as young and pretty and as anxious for good clothes and good times as your daughter is, and try to see that she gets them. Be just as uncritical of your daughter-in-law and turn just as blind an eye on her faults as you do on your daughter's.

EIGHTH. HELP YOUR SON TO BE A GOOD HUSBAND. Every mother can do a lot toward making her son's marriage a success and toward making his wife happy. Every mother-in-law can pinch-hit for her daughter-in-law and help her to win out.

The reason a lot of mothers-in-law are unpopular with their daughters-in-law is because they treat their sons as if they were martyrs as soon as they are married, and this naturally gets on their wives' nerves. Mother pities poor John because he has to work so hard to support his family; because he has to push the perambulator instead of playing golf; because he has to stay at home of an evening instead of being free to play poker with the boys or roam around to night clubs.

Don't be one of these first-aid-to-divorce mothers, who encourage their sons in being slackers husbands. On the contrary, brace your son up to do his duty and fulfill the obligations he has taken upon himself. Make him feel that you expect him to do everything in his power to make the woman happy whose life he has taken into his hands, and to make gracefully the sacrifices that marriage inevitably entails.

Teach him how to be a good husband. You are a woman and you know the little things that go so far toward making marriage a success or a total failure to a wife. Your son does not know the importance that women put on trifles. So teach him to show his wife some of the affection he feels for her instead of expecting her to take it for granted. Impress on him the necessity of paying his wife compliments and noticing the things she does for his comfort and pleasure. Tell him how women resent having to go to their husbands for every cent and make him give her an allowance. Do as a mother-in-law did; who not long ago in my presence said to her son:

"John, you have been fortunate enough to get one of the sweetest and most unselfish women in the world for a wife. Watch your step very carefully and see that you don't impose on her and let her unselfishness make you selfish to her."

NINTH. USE TACT IN DEALING WITH YOUR DAUGHTER-IN-LAW. There are mighty few people that you can't work if you will only about it in the right way, and it is worth your while to use as much finesse in handling your son's wife as you would in handling any other diplomatic problem.

If she is sensitive, watch out for her "keep off the grass" signs. If she is vain, flatter her. If she is jealous of your son's affections for you, don't flaunt his devotion in her face and never, never speak of your influence over him. And, above all things, never criticize her taste or tell her of her faults. Leave that to those to whom it is not so important to keep on good terms with her.

TENTH. NEVER LIVE WITH YOUR DAUGHTER-IN-LAW IF IT CAN POSSIBLY BE AVOIDED. In this rule is comprised all of the law and the prophets about how to be popular with your daughter-in-law.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

ALTHOUGH the earth receives more heat from the sun in January than in July, the northern hemisphere nevertheless is a much colder place in January. At that time, each heat ray strikes the earth at a low angle, thereby distributing its heat over a larger area, and is therefore less intense than when it strikes straight down from a greater distance away.
